Workers Get Ultimatum In Bliss Strike

Warned Of Court Action If They Fail To Return Monday

An ultimatum has been issued by officials by the Mackintosh-Hemphill Division of E. W. Bliss to hourly workers observing picket lines in a 10-day strike of clerical employes.

A spokesman at Pittsburgh said the hourly workers have been asked to return to work Monday or face court action for violation of contract.

Hourly workers at the Midland plant and South Side plant of Mackintosh have been honoring picket lines thrown up by clerkical workers who went on strike April 27 over a contract negotiation dispute.

The clerks are seeking a salary scale equivalent to the rates paid under the basic steel industry pattern, while the company reports the firm is not a part of that pattern.

The firm contends the hourly production workers are violating an existing contract by not reporting for work, and that plans are being made to sue for damages in event the production force continues to remain off jobs.

76-Cent Hike Ends Dispute Of Teamsters

CHICAGO (AP) — The Teamsters Union has won a 76.04-cent-an-hour increase for its drivers across the nation and ended a 12-day strike-lockout in Chicago. The labor dispute cost the Chicago area economy an estimated $300 million.

The pact must be voted on by union members.

The increase for drivers will be spread over three years. Payroll losses for the 45,000 Chicago drivers and 200,000 other workers idled by the dispute was estimated at more than $60 million.

The strike loss estimates were made by John Coulter. associate director of research and statistics for the Chicago Association of Commerce. He said there is no way to estimate the permanent loss that will result from the failure of small companies to recover.

Louis Peick, chief negotiator for the 10 striking Teamsters locals in Chicago, said the package "is the best deal we ever had."

Terms of the tentative three-year pact provide for an hourly wage increase of 25 cents the first year and 15 cents in each of the succeeding two years. The agreement also included health and welfare, pension, vacation and potential cost-of-living benefits.

Action Promised To Halt 'Derby'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. A. D. Williams King, a Negro civil rights leader, has vowed "some kind of action around Churchill Downs" today to "halt the Kentucky Derby."

Exactly what open housing advocates have in mind may not be known until after it occurs.

Some apparent disagreement among members of a committee pressing for a law banning racial discrimination in sale or rental of housing, and the failure of previously announced plans for this week to materialize has led to skepticism about today's promise of Derby disruptions.

The pressure of 1,000 police and National Guardsmen at the Downs raised some doubts that any form of demonstration could interfere with the race Reliable sources have indicated that open housing advocates will remain outside the Downs and out of view of the 100,000 fans.

It was a near certainty that any marchers would be packed into patrol wagns by city police as soon as they arrived.

Police Chief William Bindner halted a march Friday before it began by threatening to arrest all 85 marchers.

There were no incidents except for one white heckler arrested when he threw a rock at the group.

Later Friday night two groups of about 15 each attempted to march on Churchill Downs but were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct, parading without a permit and trespassing.

Security-minded Churchill Downs lost three Derby Day bands because of a telephoned threat on the lives of bandsmen "if you show up at the Derby." The bands, which would have played the traditional "My Old Kentucky Home," will be replaced by a commercial group.

Walks Away From Nursing Home

Youth Who Needs Insulin Object Of Search In Area

LISBON — Walter Clark, 18, a "bad diabetic" at the Hutton Nursing Home in Salem, is the object of search after walking away from the home early Friday.

Home personnel said the youth requires insulin daily and they are concerned about his condition.

They said he got up about 5:30 a. m. yesterday to go to Central Clinic to have his blood sugar checked. This was routine for him and they thought nothing of it until several hours passed and he had not returned. They checked with the clinic and learned he had not been there.

The nursing home notified the sheriff's office about 9:30 a.m. and the message was broadcast throughout the county.

Earlier yesterday, Officer Richard Koffel of Lisbon saw the boy, a stranger, walking on Washington St. and questioned him. He said the youth told him he was visiting relatives here.

The night nurse at Hutton's said the youth is about 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighs 170 pounds, has black eyes and brown hair and was wearing black trousers and a blue and white plaid shirt. He also had a coat and an orange scarf around his neck — "like cowboys wear."

The youth is a Welfare Department patient at the home. The Highway Patrol early today notified Hutton's the youth had been seen in East Liverpool last night.

Power Fails In Rural Area Of Hancock

Homes, One Plant Are Affected When Service Goes Off

A power failure in a rural area of northern Hancock County late Friday morning caused an interruption of service to about 200 residents.

Walter Jordan, manager of the Chester office of the Monongahela Power Co., said the failure occurred about 10:55 a. m. when an underground circuit at the east Chester substation failed.

Customers in the areas of Lawrenceville, Little Blue, Johnsonville, Routes 30 and 2, Park Meadows, Gas Valley Rd., Shepherds Valley Rd., and the Allison School Rd. were affected. Jordan said the only major industry that experienced any interruption was the National Church Supply Co., near Route 30.

Jordan said service was restored about 12:40 p. m.

To avoid a reoccurence of the problem, he added, work crews have eliminated the underground circuit and have installed an overhead circuit in its place. The work was completed about 7 p.m. Friday.

Jordan said the Allied Chemical Corp., the Taylor, Smith and Taylor Co. and the Harker China Co. experienced a fluctuation in service due to the load placed on another operating circuit while the change was being made.

Rain Slated To Continue Until Sunday

The rain which covered the tri-state district today is due to continue until Sunday morning, according to the weatherman.

The cool weather also will remain, with a low tonight in the 40's.

Light snow was reported in some northeastern counties, including the Youngstown area, early today, mixed with rain that began early Friday night in the southwestern sections and spread across the state by morning.

Temperatures ranged from the mid 30s north to the low 50s south.

Youngstown was coldest with 34; Chesapeake the warmest with 51. Toledo, Findlay and Mansfield had 39 and Columbus 41.

The morning weather map showed an extensive area of rain from Ohio southwestward into Texas. This system will cause periods of intermittent rain across Ohio through the weekend.

3 Lose Their Lives As Car Rams Truck

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A car rammed a disabled truck in suburban Haysville Friday night, killing a woman and her daughter and son, police said.

Dead at the scene on the Ohio River Blvd. were Mrs. Agnes Hunter, 44; her son, David, and her daughter, Olive Anne, 15; all of nearby Shaler Twp.

Police said a truck operated by Raymond R. Hein of Pittsburgh's Lawrenceville section broke down. They said he placed two warning flares beside the truck and went to make a telephone call. The crash occurred while he was away.

The son was driving the car, a small, foreign-made auto.

Teamsters Deny Report Of Changes

Chain Of Command Claimed Set Up To End One-Man Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Harold Gibbons of the Teamsters Union disputes reports that union leaders are moving to re-establish a union chain of command long ignored during the rigid one-man rule of President James R. Hoffa.

With Hoffa now serving a prison term, top Teamsters officials were reported earlier Friday to have agreed in a secret Chicago session to bar bypassing if local, city and regional leadership levels by members with complaints.

Under Hoffa's decade at the Teamsters helm, sources said, members were encouraged to report problems directly to the top man. This undermined the authority of officials at lower command levels—but kept Hoffa in personal contact with members throughout the 1.8 million-member union.

The new agreement reportedly was reached Thursday in Chicago, with the Teamsters general vice president, Frank Fitzsimmons, Hoffa's handpicked successor, reportedly taking part. Hoffa still holds the title of president, but Fitzsimmons is occupying his office.

"Fitzsimmons feels the office of the general president can't deal with all problems," one high-placed Teamster source said.

The agreement is said to include the threat of disciplinary action against any member who tries to "short-circuit" the chain of command.

The action appeared to have been sparked by the 12 Teamsters vice presidents, whose authority stands to be enhanced.

Mohn warned a Western Conference meeting recently not to "short-circuit your joint council. If you don't go through your joint council with your problems, they will be sent back there.

"We shall not hesitate to invoke whatever authority and discipline is necessary so the over-all majority of our people are not going to suffer for the action of a few."

The Teamsters organization pyramids from locals to joint councils, then to regional offices and finally to union headquarters here.

Major joint councils are in Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, St. Paul, Minn., Sacramento, Calif., Dallas, Tex., St. Louis, Mo., Washington, New York and Jersey City, N.J.

Gibbons, who had just returned to St. Louis from Chicago, said there was no secret session of the general executive board and no dramatic changes in the union's structure. He had participated in negotiations ending a two-week wildcat Teamsters strike in Chicago.

Importance Of Victory Stressed

By ROBERT D. OHMAN

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — U.S. Marines, their fatigues soaked with sweat, gazed wearily at the shell-torn hilltop they won Friday after 12 days of savage fighting.

Of the 1,400 Marines engaged in the chain of battles for three hills, 160 had been slain and 745 had been wounded. The Leathernecks had killed at least 577 North Vietnamese regulars. That many had been confirmed. Marine officers estimated 610 others may have died.

"Hill 881 North was secured by Hotel Company, 2nd Battalion, 3rd Marines at 1435 — 2:35 p.m. — today," a Marine announcement said Friday.

That hill, named on military maps like the others for height in meters, was the final objective.

The Marines earlier had wrested from the North Vietnamese the summits of Hill 881 South and Hill 861. With 881 North, the three hills form an arrowhead pointed at Khe Sanh, a forward American command post four miles to the southeast.

The Battle of the Hilltops began April 24 when a Marine combat patrol approached Hill 861. A forward observation team came under fire and four of the five men in it were killed.

The outnumbered Marines pulled back and reinforcements — the 2nd and 3rd Battalions, 3rd Marines — were rushed in.

Americans Pound At Key Targets On Hanoi's Outskirts

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces mounted a flurry of raids in South Vietnam in the wake of American air strikes Friday at key targets on Hanoi's outskirts, including the previously immune Ha Dong army barracks.

U.S. Marines holding Hill 881 North, newly won in a bloody battle that cleared North Vietnamese regiments from high ground near the Laotian frontier, came under a 92-shell mortar barrage which killed one Marine and wounded six. The Marines countered with mortar and artillery fire.

Elsewhere, Red units attacked a provincial capital, a U.S. Army Special Forces camp and a village administration building. A Vietnamese spokesman said more than 100 civilians were killed or wounded.

U.S. Air Force pilots flying out of Thailand said they made a successful attack on the Ha Dong army barracks, four miles southwest of Hanoi, and wrecked the Yen Vien railroad yards.

A spokesman said three of the planes were shot down and the crewmen were missing. This brought to 533 the number of planes acknowledged lost north of the border.

Hanoi broadcast a declaration that eight planes were felled. It said several of the pilots were captured and three—James Lindbergh Hughes, 40, of Iowa; James Richard Shively, 25 of Texas; and Gordon Albert Larsol, 40, of Minnesota—were presented at a news conference.

Perhaps confused by insignia, the North Vietnamese account gave them Navy rankings, saying Hughes and Larsol were commanders and Shively was a lieeutenant (j.g.). A Hanoi dispatch of the Soviet news agency Tass concerning the same group, said Hughes was a colonel, Larsol a lieutenant colonel and Shively a lieutenant.

Tass said the three were led to the news conference at the International Club through streets sounding with "shouts of anger."

Communist targets in South Vietnam included Ham Tan, the capital of Binh Tuy Province, in the Mekong River delta 76 miles southeast of Saigon. Spokesmen said five civilians were killed there and 52 civilians and one U.S. soldier were wounded.

In another raid on the Tracon village administration building at about the same time only 10 miles away, 8 women and 16 children were killed.

No significant ground action was reported by the U.S. Command today, but American pilots were busy over North Vietnam Friday hitting several key targets on the outskirts of Hanoi and striking surface-to-air missile sites just north of the demilitarized zone.

The raids cost the United States three planes shot down by ground fire in the Hanoi area, a spokesman said. It brought to 533 the total number of planes announced lost during the war. The three crewmen were listed as missing in action.

Changes Pushed In Ferguson Act

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Few votes in the 107th Ohio General Assembly's relatively uninspired four months here have raised more eyebrows than the one cast last month by State Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R-Piqua, against a bill to establish collective bargaining machinery between teachers and their boards of education.

It was rare to see the Senate's president pro tem — the Republican floor leader — break from 22 other GOP senators to join 7 Democrats in opposing a measure which had been branded antilabor.

"I GUESS I'm just old-fashioned and think teachers should deal individually with boards of education," was Gray's uncomplicated explanation after the vote.

Apparently a majority of his colleagues agreed his concept is just that — outdated. By a 25-8 vote the Senate pushed the bill into the House, where by mid-May it will be heard in the House Education Committee.

The first is the inability of the Ohio School Boards Association to find backing for legislation to counter the teacher negotiations bill, which has staunch support of the Ohio Education Association.

The School Boards Association bill, to permit boards to refuse to negotiate with a teachers' organization if they choose, has been introduced in the House as a "requested" bill — which means Rep. Howard R. Knight, R-Sandusky, offered to sponsor it merely to put it before the legislature.

The new proposal, which lists Sen. William B. Nye,

Hoffa's Arrival Awaited For Hearing On Tuesday

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —A Hamilton County jail cell was in readiness today for the expected arrival of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa for a hearing on his fourth new trial motion.

There was no official word on the arrival time of Hoffa, who began serving an eight-year prison term for jury tampering almost two months ago.

Larry Campbell of Detroit, Mich., arrived Friday in the custody of marshals from the federal prison in Sandstone, Minn. Campbell's uncle, Thomas Ewing Parks of Nashville, and Ewing King of Nashville, were brought here Sunday from Texarkana, Tex.

U.S. Dist. Judge Frank W. Wilson, who sentenced Hoffa to the eight-year term, will hear Hoffa's latest new-trial bid.

Hoffa and his codefendants contend the government used wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping during his 1964 trial. Justice Department attorneys have denied this.

Teamsters Deny Report Of Changes

Chain Of Command Claimed Set Up To End One-Man Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Harold Gibbons of the Teamsters Union disputes reports that union leaders are moving to re-establish a union chain of command long ignored during the rigid one-man rule of President James R. Hoffa.

With Hoffa now serving a prison term, top Teamsters officials were reported earlier Friday to have agreed in a secret Chicago session to bar bypassing if local, city and regional leadership levels by members with complaints.

Under Hoffa's decade at the Teamsters helm, sources said, members were encouraged to report problems directly to the top man. This undermined the authority of officials at lower command levels—but kept Hoffa in personal contact with members throughout the 1.8 million-member union.

The new agreement reportedly was reached Thursday in Chicago, with the Teamsters general vice president, Frank Fitzsimmons, Hoffa's handpicked successor, reportedly taking part. Hoffa still holds the title of president, but Fitzsimmons is occupying his office.

"Fitzsimmons feels the office of the general president can't deal with all problems," one high-placed Teamster source said.

The agreement is said to include the threat of disciplinary action against any member who tries to "short-circuit" the chain of command.

The action appeared to have been sparked by the 12 Teamsters vice presidents, whose authority stands to be enhanced.

Mohn warned a Western Conference meeting recently not to "short-circuit your joint council. If you don't go through your joint council with your problems, they will be sent back there.

"We shall not hesitate to invoke whatever authority and discipline is necessary so the over-all majority of our people are not going to suffer for the action of a few."

Major joint councils are in Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, St. Paul, Minn., Sacramento, Calif., Dallas, Tex., St. Louis, Mo., Washington, New York and Jersey City, N.J.

Gibbons, who had just returned to St. Louis from Chicago, said there was no secret session of the general executive board and no dramatic changes in the union's structure. He had participated in negotiations ending a two-week wildcat Teamsters strike in Chicago.

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Few votes in the 107th Ohio General Assembly's relatively uninspired four months here have raised more eyebrows than the one cast last month by State Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R-Piqua, against a bill to establish collective bargaining machinery between teachers and their boards of education.

It was rare to see the Senate's president pro tem — the Republican floor leader — break from 22 other GOP senators to join 7 Democrats in opposing a measure which had been branded antilabor.

"I GUESS I'm just old-fashioned and think teachers should deal individually with boards of education," was Gray's uncomplicated explanation after the vote.

Apparently a majority of his colleagues agreed his concept is just that — outdated. By a 25-8 vote the Senate pushed the bill into the House, where by mid-May it will be heard in the House Education Committee.

The first is the inability of the Ohio School Boards Association to find backing for legislation to counter the teacher negotiations bill, which has staunch support of the Ohio Education Association.

The School Boards Association bill, to permit boards to refuse to negotiate with a teachers' organization if they choose, has been introduced in the House as a "requested" bill — which means Rep. Howard R. Knight, R-Sandusky, offered to sponsor it merely to put it before the legislature.

The new proposal, which lists Sen. William B. Nye,

Hoffa's Arrival Awaited For Hearing On Tuesday

BULLETIN

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —A Hamilton County jail cell was in readiness today for the expected arrival of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa for a hearing on his fourth new trial motion.

There was no official word on the arrival time of Hoffa, who began serving an eight-year prison term for jury tampering almost two months ago.

Larry Campbell of Detroit, Mich., arrived Friday in the custody of marshals from the federal prison in Sandstone, Minn. Campbell's uncle, Thomas Ewing Parks of Nashville, and Ewing King of Nashville, were brought here Sunday from Texarkana, Tex.

U.S. Dist. Judge Frank W. Wilson, who sentenced Hoffa to the eight-year term, will hear Hoffa's latest new-trial bid.

Provincial Capital Hit By Red Units

Americans Pound At Key Targets On Hanoi's Outskirts

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces mounted a flurry of raids in South Vietnam in the wake of American air strikes Friday at key targets on Hanoi's outskirts, including the previously immune Ha Dong army barracks.

U.S. Marines holding Hill 881 North, newly won in a bloody battle that cleared North Vietnamese regiments from high ground near the Laotian frontier, came under a 92-shell mortar barrage which killed one Marine and wounded six. The Marines countered with mortar and artillery fire.

Elsewhere, Red units attacked a provincial capital, a U.S. Army Special Forces camp and a village administration building. A Vietnamese spokesman said more than 100 civilians were killed or wounded.

U.S. Air Force pilots flying out of Thailand said they made a successful attack on the Ha Dong army barracks, four miles southwest of Hanoi, and wrecked the Yen Vien railroad yards.

A spokesman said three of the planes were shot down and the crewmen were missing. This brought to 533 the number of planes acknowledged lost north of the border.

Hanoi broadcast a declaration that eight planes were felled. It said several of the pilots were captured and three—James Lindbergh Hughes, 40, of Iowa; James Richard Shively, 25 of Texas; and Gordon Albert Larsol, 40, of Minnesota—were presented at a news conference.

Perhaps confused by insignia, the North Vietnamese account gave them Navy rankings, saying Hughes and Larsol were commanders and Shively was a lieeutenant (j.g.). A Hanoi dispatch of the Soviet news agency Tass concerning the same group, said Hughes was a colonel, Larsol a lieutenant colonel and Shively a lieutenant.

Tass said the three were led to the news conference at the International Club through streets sounding with "shouts of anger."

Communist targets in South Vietnam included Ham Tan, the capital of Binh Tuy Province, in the Mekong River delta 76 miles southeast of Saigon. Spokesmen said five civilians were killed there and 52 civilians and one U.S. soldier were wounded.

In another raid on the Tracon village administration building at about the same time only 10 miles away, 8 women and 16 children were killed.

No significant ground action was reported by the U.S. Command today, but American pilots were busy over North Vietnam Friday hitting several key targets on the outskirts of Hanoi and striking surface-to-air missile sites just north of the demilitarized zone.

The raids cost the United States three planes shot down by ground fire in the Hanoi area, a spokesman said. It brought to 533 the total number of planes announced lost during the war. The three crewmen were listed as missing in action.

World Journal Tribune Mourned

NEW YORK (AP) — The shutdown of the World Journal Tribune has brought expressions of shock and sorrow from members of the newspaper's staff and industry leaders.

The eight-month-old paper published its final editions Friday after announcing that union restrictions and harassment coupled with steady losses had forced it to quit.

"The thing that has brought us to this day is the intransigence of the unions," charged Matt Meyer, president of the afternoon and Sunday paper. He said losses were averaging $700,000 a month.

Union leaders — Bertram A. Powers, president of the Printers' Union local, and Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the Newspaper Guild — suggested in turn that there might have been difficulties among the three owners.

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, president and publisher of the New York Times, said the loss "filled me with shock and sorrow" and called it "a blow to our entire community, whose spirit and vitality need many voices, many opinions to reflect its own mixture."

Paul Miller, president of Gannett Newspapers and of The Associated Press, said he was "terribly saddened by the closing. I know they had many problems from the start and had hoped they could surmount them."

The newspaper was formed in a merger of three of the most famous names in American newspaper history — the New York Herald Tribune, the World-Telegram & the Sun and the Journal-American.

First published after a 140-day strike last year, the end came as a new round of New York newspaper contract negotiations was under way in which a pattern of a 21 per cent wage increase over three years had been set.

Meyer placed circulation of the World Journal Tribune at 700,000 daily and 900,000 Sunday. It was third in size of four Manhattan dailies.

The closing left 2,600 persons out of jobs. In the city room, after the announcement was posted, there were some tears among the staff and some tense laughter.

For some employes it was the third time in recent years a paper had folded under them. "I'm still in shock," said Ara Piastro. "There was an intimation when the other two folded, but I didn't suspect a thing this time."

The shutdown left Manhattan with two morning dailies, both with Sunday editions, the Times and the Daily News; and with one afternoon newspaper of general circulation, the New York Post.

At the turn of the century there were 15 general circulation dailies here and as recently as 1930 a dozen still survived.

The death of the World Journal Tribune also wiped out the last vestiges in New York of two newspaper empires — the Hearst organization and Scripps-Howard.

Partners in the newspaper were William Randolph Hearst Jr., chairman of the Hearst Corp.; Jack Howard, president and general editorial manager of the Scripps-Howard Newspapers, and John Hay Whitney, owner of the old Herald Tribune.

Meyer said the owners decided Wednesday night to shut down the paper.

In his statement announcing the closing, Meyer said the 21 per cent wage boost pattern set at the Daily News by the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union would add $10.5 million in payroll costs over three years to members of 10 unions. The operation already was losing money at a rate of $8.4 million a year, he said.

Meyer said the decision to close down was "irrevocable" and said the owners had been in touch with other publishers for several weeks to investigate the possibility of selling the paper before folding it.

"Their response has been, 'No, not at this point'," he said.

Mayor John V. Lindsay said Friday he had "contacted several of the nation's most distinguished publishers" to try to resurrect the paper but found either little interest or forbodings about high costs, competition and difficult labor-management relations.

In his formal statement, Meyer said: "The conditions under which we have tried to operate our paper, the cost of that operation and now the new round of wage increases reached in the agreement between the Daily News makes it impossible to continue."

Pittsburgh Coffee House Faces 'Disorderly' Label

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A coffee house sponsored by church groups as a haven for the rebellious beard-and-sandals set has run into trouble with narcotics agents and police.

But the sponsors say they are not surprised and there is no immediate sign that they'll withdraw their support.

"I find that most people want to lock up the younger generation and throw away the key," said the Rev. Richard D. Mowry, manager of the coffee house called Loaves and Fishes.

"They want to push them off into a corner of society where nobody ever sees them," he added. "We can't do that."

Rev. Mowry, 37, a Presbyterian minister, was released on his own recognizance Friday after his arraignment on charges of keeping a disorderly house.

He and 29 youths were arrested in a raid on the coffee house by Allegheny County detectives shortly before midnight Thursday. The detectives said they found marijuana and pills that were sent to a laboratory to determine if they were narcotic.

Police said they acted after neighbors complained of noise from the coffee house on Bellefonte Street.

The Loaves and Fishes' first manager, Richard D. Bannister, is serving a 10-year sentence for selling narcotics to federal agents in Pittsburgh's Shadyside district shortly after the coffee house opened there 10 months ago.

Rev. Mowry said, "It's unfortunate and maybe unavoidable" but the use of narcotics "goes on all the time" in the Shadyside area. "Sometimes we scratch our heads and wonder why they picked us out," he said, referring to the Thursday police raid.

"But this coffee house is what Christianity is all about," said Rev. John Baiz, rector of Calvary Episcopal church, a sponsor of the coffee house along with two Presbyterian churches and a Methodist church.

"It's supposed to be related to the respectable and the not so respectable," said Rev. Baiz. "And nobody else that we know of seems to be doing anything with these young people.

"We are interested in establishing communication with the young, 18-to-20-year-old people — who have really lost the capacity to communicate with the adult generation," added the rector.

The lines of communication are a cup of coffee, a wedge of cheese and concerned conversation, according to Rev. Mowry, a bearded father of four who sold securities and was a partner in a contracting firm before turning to the ministry.

"We get a generally mixed crowd — from 16-year-olds up to quite mature adults," he added.

'Avoid Labels,' Republicans Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans must avoid at all costs crippling labels of special and sectional interests, Gov. Shafer says.

Shafer told the national federation of Republican women at a meeting here that it is time for the GOP to forget contemporary political labels and think in terms of "just plain, practical Republicans."

"We must rid ourselves of the silly game of 'liberal-conservative' 'conservative - liberal," Shafer said.

"What we are looking for in our party are just plain practical Republicans who want to get the job done," he added.

Shafer said the climate for a GOP victory next year was right because the federal government under the control of the Democratic party is "out of tune with the people and the problems."

Hills

Marine commander in Vietnam, said prisoners identified the Communist units as two regiments of the 325th North Vietnamese Division and said they had begun infiltrating into South Vietnam three months ago.

Since the terrain along the far western section of the demilitarized zone is so rugged it is virtually impassable, it is assumed the division used the Ho Chi Minh trail that loops through Laos to approach Khe Sanh.

Khe Sanh is 12 miles south of the demilitarized zone and about 10 miles east of the Laotian border.

By the time Hill 881 North fell, heavy casualties had forced both sides to shift units.

Three Marine companies had been replaced.

The entire North Vietnamese regiment originally in position also had pulled back and a fresh regiment manned the bunkers.

Why were the hills so important?

Walt said it was obvious the Communists were preparing to attack Khe Sanh, a town with a population about 1,000, and the Marines went out to meet and kill as many as possible.

Lt. Col. James H. Reeder of Montezuma, Ind., commander of the Marine outpost at Khe Sanh, said the hilltops had to be secured because the North Vietnamese used them as observation posts for mortar attacks.

"We had to take the high ground in order to move past and continue to engage the enemy," he said.

Reeder added that he believed the North Vietnamese made such a tenacious defense to protect supplies massed for a planned attack on Khe Sanh.

Col. John Lanigan of London, Ohio, commander of the 3rd Marine Regiment, said, "My orders were to clean the enemy out of their positions." He said the three hills are key terrain, overlooking at least two major infiltration routes from Laos, "but my real objective was to drive the North Vietnamese out — not hold ground."

Will the Marines attempt to hold the hard-won hilltops?

Walt declines to comment, but indicated that if the Marines don't stay on the hills they won't let the North Vietnamese have them back either.

"I guarantee you I'll aim to keep them from taking Khe Sanh," Walt said.

Lanigan said his troops will consolidate their grip on the hilltop, then patrol the area.

With the 75,000 Marines in Vietnam already spread thin throughout the northern 1st Corps Area, it would be difficult for them to leave a large force in the mountain triangle. They probably will rely on reconnaissance patrols to warn of any enemy buildup and use reaction forces to encounter the Communists.

Elks Will Be Headed By Postal Employe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Elwood W. Reed, a postal worker from Bowling Green, assumes the presidency Saturday of the Ohio Elks Association, holding its convention here.

Appellate Court Lists Work Load For 1st Quarter

A total of 100 cases handled during the first quarter of 1967 by the Seventh District Court of Appeals has been termed by the appeals judges an example of the heavy caseload of the court.

George M. Jones, presiding judge, said, "In three months the court heard 100 cases, which represents the caseload for an entire year for two other Court of Appeals districts in this state. This illustrates that a terrific number of matters call for the court's attention and time."

The court in the first three months has held sessions in seven of the 13 counties the district encompasses.

"The 100 matters arising out of these seven counties require the court to make decisions in every type of controversy, ranging from appeals of first degree murder convictions to the validity of zoning ordinances," Judge Jones said.

"The members of this court have traveled over 2,600 miles so far this year," Judge John J. Lynch pointed out, "and we have only partially completed our circuit. The state legislature is being asked to create a new Court of Appeals in the northern part of our district due to the great amount of time spent in travel and on the caseload."

Two Juveniles Face Hearing In Stolen Car Case

Two Weirton juveniles have been returned to Hancock County after being apprehended in the southern end of the Panhandle with a stolen car.

A 13-year-old boy and a girl, 15, were picked up at Smithfield in Wetzel County Friday by authorities there.

Troopers from the Weirton barracks of the West Virginia state police lodged the two in juvenile quarters of the Hancock County jail pending a hearing before John Grossi, county juvenile officer. No date has been set.

The two juveniles were returned about 10:30 p. m. Friday.

Sales Tax Collection Shows Rise Over '66

Sales tax collections in Columbiana County for the 22nd biweekly reporting period of April 16-29 totaled $48,699, an increase over the $41,982 collected for the corresponding period in 1966, according to State Treasurer John D. Herbert at Columbus.

The fiscal year-to-date collection in the county totals $1,317,957, also an increase over the $1,252,247 for the same reporting period last year.

Motor vehicle and house trailer sales and use tax collections in the county for the bi-weekly reporting period totaled $39,423, up over the $33,575 for the same period last year.

Changes

D-Tallmadge, among its cosponsors, will retain the no-strike clause, but also would establish better ways of settling differences. Public employes would have the right to bargain collectively and unionize or refuse to unionize.

A labor relations board would consider and rule on charges of unfair labor practices. Fact-finding machinery also would be available in case of a deadlock.

Private employes have had the right to organize and bargain since 1935.

Ohio's Ferguson Act, its opponents argue, is impractical, as evidenced by the fact it has been used only twice in its 19 years on the books.

SPONSORS of the repeal bill were in high spirits last week after its first hearing before the Senate Elections, Commerce and Labor Committee.

True, testimony was offered by an obviously partial witness, Thomas Morgan, international representative for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO.

But the committee also heard supporting testimony from Cincinnati's personnel director and from an Ohio State University economics professor.

"These statements from both sides could open the way for passage," opined Nye.

Still another indication the legislature might move in this area springs from teachers' strikes in Martins Ferry and Hubbard, walkouts by police around the state and a garbage collectors' strike in Toledo.

THAT A better approach than the Ferguson Act is needed seems to be an opinion gathering momentum.

It would be most unlikely, of course, if opposition doesn't surface to the repeal effort and to teacher-school board negotiations.

Return fire undoubtedly will come from legislators and lobbyists who share Gray's reasoning that public employes don't have the same prerogatives as their counterparts in private industry and business.

Some hold to the opinion people are aware when accepting public employment that certain rights are forfeited in the area of wages and working conditions.

THANKS

I consider it an honor and a privilege to be your City Treasurer. Many thanks for your complimentary vote on election day, May 2.

Pittsburgh Coffee House Faces 'Disorderly' Label

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A coffee house sponsored by church groups as a haven for the rebellious beard-and-sandals set has run into trouble with narcotics agents and police.

But the sponsors say they are not surprised and there is no immediate sign that they'll withdraw their support.

"I find that most people want to lock up the younger generation and throw away the key," said the Rev. Richard D. Mowry, manager of the coffee house called Loaves and Fishes.

"They want to push them off into a corner of society where nobody ever sees them," he added. "We can't do that."

Rev. Mowry, 37, a Presbyterian minister, was released on his own recognizance Friday after his arraignment on charges of keeping a disorderly house.

He and 29 youths were arrested in a raid on the coffee house by Allegheny County detectives shortly before midnight Thursday. The detectives said they found marijuana and pills that were sent to a laboratory to determine if they were narcotic.

Police said they acted after neighbors complained of noise from the coffee house on Bellefonte Street.

The Loaves and Fishes' first manager, Richard D. Bannister, is serving a 10-year sentence for selling narcotics to federal agents in Pittsburgh's Shadyside district shortly after the coffee house opened there 10 months ago.

Rev. Mowry said, "It's unfortunate and maybe unavoidable" but the use of narcotics "goes on all the time" in the Shadyside area. "Sometimes we scratch our heads and wonder why they picked us out," he said, referring to the Thursday police raid.

"But this coffee house is what Christianity is all about," said Rev. John Baiz, rector of Calvary Episcopal church, a sponsor of the coffee house along with two Presbyterian churches and a Methodist church.

"It's supposed to be related to the respectable and the not so respectable," said Rev. Baiz. "And nobody else that we know of seems to be doing anything with these young people.

"We are interested in establishing communication with the young, 18-to-20-year-old people — who have really lost the capacity to communicate with the adult generation," added the rector.

The lines of communication are a cup of coffee, a wedge of cheese and concerned conversation, according to Rev. Mowry, a bearded father of four who sold securities and was a partner in a contracting firm before turning to the ministry.

"We get a generally mixed crowd — from 16-year-olds up to quite mature adults," he added.

'Avoid Labels,' Republicans Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans must avoid at all costs crippling labels of special and sectional interests, Gov. Shafer says.

Shafer told the national federation of Republican women at a meeting here that it is time for the GOP to forget contemporary political labels and think in terms of "just plain, practical Republicans."

"We must rid ourselves of the silly game of 'liberal-conservative' 'conservative - liberal," Shafer said.

"What we are looking for in our party are just plain practical Republicans who want to get the job done," he added.

Shafer said the climate for a GOP victory next year was right because the federal government under the control of the Democratic party is "out of tune with the people and the problems."

Hills

Marine commander in Vietnam, said prisoners identified the Communist units as two regiments of the 325th North Vietnamese Division and said they had begun infiltrating into South Vietnam three months ago.

Since the terrain along the far western section of the demilitarized zone is so rugged it is virtually impassable, it is assumed the division used the Ho Chi Minh trail that loops through Laos to approach Khe Sanh.

Khe Sanh is 12 miles south of the demilitarized zone and about 10 miles east of the Laotian border.

By the time Hill 881 North fell, heavy casualties had forced both sides to shift units.

Three Marine companies had been replaced.

The entire North Vietnamese regiment originally in position also had pulled back and a fresh regiment manned the bunkers.

Why were the hills so important?

Walt said it was obvious the Communists were preparing to attack Khe Sanh, a town with a population about 1,000, and the Marines went out to meet and kill as many as possible.

Lt. Col. James H. Reeder of Montezuma, Ind., commander of the Marine outpost at Khe Sanh, said the hilltops had to be secured because the North Vietnamese used them as observation posts for mortar attacks.

"We had to take the high ground in order to move past and continue to engage the enemy," he said.

Reeder added that he believed the North Vietnamese made such a tenacious defense to protect supplies massed for a planned attack on Khe Sanh.

Col. John Lanigan of London, Ohio, commander of the 3rd Marine Regiment, said, "My orders were to clean the enemy out of their positions." He said the three hills are key terrain, overlooking at least two major infiltration routes from Laos, "but my real objective was to drive the North Vietnamese out — not hold ground."

Will the Marines attempt to hold the hard-won hilltops?

Walt declines to comment, but indicated that if the Marines don't stay on the hills they won't let the North Vietnamese have them back either.

"I guarantee you I'll aim to keep them from taking Khe Sanh," Walt said.

Lanigan said his troops will consolidate their grip on the hilltop, then patrol the area.

With the 75,000 Marines in Vietnam already spread thin throughout the northern 1st Corps Area, it would be difficult for them to leave a large force in the mountain triangle. They probably will rely on reconnaissance patrols to warn of any enemy buildup and use reaction forces to encounter the Communists.

Appellate Court Lists Work Load For 1st Quarter

A total of 100 cases handled during the first quarter of 1967 by the Seventh District Court of Appeals has been termed by the appeals judges an example of the heavy caseload of the court.

George M. Jones, presiding judge, said, "In three months the court heard 100 cases, which represents the caseload for an entire year for two other Court of Appeals districts in this state. This illustrates that a terrific number of matters call for the court's attention and time."

The court in the first three months has held sessions in seven of the 13 counties the district encompasses.

"The 100 matters arising out of these seven counties require the court to make decisions in every type of controversy, ranging from appeals of first degree murder convictions to the validity of zoning ordinances," Judge Jones said.

"The members of this court have traveled over 2,600 miles so far this year," Judge John J. Lynch pointed out, "and we have only partially completed our circuit. The state legislature is being asked to create a new Court of Appeals in the northern part of our district due to the great amount of time spent in travel and on the caseload."

Two Juveniles Face Hearing In Stolen Car Case

Two Weirton juveniles have been returned to Hancock County after being apprehended in the southern end of the Panhandle with a stolen car.

A 13-year-old boy and a girl, 15, were picked up at Smithfield in Wetzel County Friday by authorities there.

Troopers from the Weirton barracks of the West Virginia state police lodged the two in juvenile quarters of the Hancock County jail pending a hearing before John Grossi, county juvenile officer. No date has been set.

The two juveniles were returned about 10:30 p. m. Friday.

Sales Tax Collection Shows Rise Over '66

Sales tax collections in Columbiana County for the 22nd biweekly reporting period of April 16-29 totaled $48,699, an increase over the $41,982 collected for the corresponding period in 1966, according to State Treasurer John D. Herbert at Columbus.

The fiscal year-to-date collection in the county totals $1,317,957, also an increase over the $1,252,247 for the same reporting period last year.

Motor vehicle and house trailer sales and use tax collections in the county for the bi-weekly reporting period totaled $39,423, up over the $33,575 for the same period last year.

Changes

D-Tallmadge, among its cosponsors, will retain the no-strike clause, but also would establish better ways of settling differences. Public employes would have the right to bargain collectively and unionize or refuse to unionize.

A labor relations board would consider and rule on charges of unfair labor practices. Fact-finding machinery also would be available in case of a deadlock.

Private employes have had the right to organize and bargain since 1935.

Ohio's Ferguson Act, its opponents argue, is impractical, as evidenced by the fact it has been used only twice in its 19 years on the books.

SPONSORS of the repeal bill were in high spirits last week after its first hearing before the Senate Elections, Commerce and Labor Committee.

True, testimony was offered by an obviously partial witness, Thomas Morgan, international representative for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO.

But the committee also heard supporting testimony from Cincinnati's personnel director and from an Ohio State University economics professor.

"These statements from both sides could open the way for passage," opined Nye.

Still another indication the legislature might move in this area springs from teachers' strikes in Martins Ferry and Hubbard, walkouts by police around the state and a garbage collectors' strike in Toledo.

THAT A better approach than the Ferguson Act is needed seems to be an opinion gathering momentum.

It would be most unlikely, of course, if opposition doesn't surface to the repeal effort and to teacher-school board negotiations.

Return fire undoubtedly will come from legislators and lobbyists who share Gray's reasoning that public employes don't have the same prerogatives as their counterparts in private industry and business.

Some hold to the opinion people are aware when accepting public employment that certain rights are forfeited in the area of wages and working conditions.

THANKS

I consider it an honor and a privilege to be your City Treasurer. Many thanks for your complimentary vote on election day, May 2.

The Sounds Are 'Magic' At ELHS Choral Concert

By CLARA HALL

Strains of Tijuana Brass, nostalgic melodies of Broadway and rhythmic folk songs produced beautiful music as the choral department of East Liverpool High School, under the direction of Robert Shankovich, presented its spring concert before a packed house Friday night at Westgate School.

The theme, "Sounds Magic," was appropriate as the various groups, costumed delightfully, presented their numbers, picking up tempo right along and keeping the audience completely interested.

The hit of the show was a takeoff from "West Side Story," with Don Edgar, Dan Morgan, Mac Ogilvie, Michael Savage and Wayne Christen performing as the "jet set" while the boys' chorus sang "Officer Krupke."

THERE WAS action a-plenty as the boys prepared for a "rumble," running down the aisle, throwing each other around and cutting up fanatically. A typical West Side setting was created for the background, with the usual "alley" scribbling on the fences.

Cathy Stover and Nancy Sturgeon accompanied the Concert Choir in the sacred numbers "Missa Brevis," "Kyrie," "Agnus Dei" and "May The God of Wit Inspire."

As they sang "Could Ye Not Watch With Me," several dancers were silhouetted before the brilliant blue screen. William Burlingame arranged the choreography.

The concluding numbers by the robed choir were "The Month of May" and "No Man Is An Island." Tom Arcuragi sang the baritone solo "O Lovely Night," with Mark Stover at the cello and Miss Stover at the piano.

Large playing cards were used on the sides and movable backdrops of stripes and circles in the center. The girls were attired in orange and yellow plaid shifts, designed with suspenders and patch pockets, with bandanas on their heads. The fellows wore bright plaid shirts.

As they sang "Gavotte," the silhouetted dancers were featured in a contrasting minuet and modern twist.

ONE OF THE most entertaining parts of the program was the humorous "choral verse" rendition of "Valse," with Mac Ogilvie giving the introduction.

The other numbers by the Junior Choir were "Sing Praises," "The Ash Grove," "Father William" and "What The World Needs Now Is Love."

A touch of Mexico was featured as they sang "The Lonely Bull," with a bright red glow focused over the entire group. Orange shoes set off their shift dresses of yellow and white trimmed with black.

For their piano duet, Miss Stover and Miss Sturgeon played the theme from "The Apartment."

Theatrical effects were created for the Broadway background at the finale offered by the Concert Choir. Beautiful purple lighting and flickering Broadway marquees were featured as the group passed about bright cerise masks.

The white brocade dresses of the girls were styled with large blue and green cabbage roses at the shoulders and large scallops of the same crepe paper at the hemline. The boys wore blue or green vests and arm bands.

Their lively numbers were "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Music To Watch Girls By" and "Mame." Catchy folk songs were "Deaf Woman's Courtship," "Hold My Mule" and "Moja Diridika." The boys sang "Quiet Girl.'

Instrumentalists were Bob Fannin, percussion; Dan Morgan, guitar; George Grant, bass, and Jim Gritton, Stan Hargreaves, Gary Martin and Miss Starkey, trumpets. Don Adams is conductor of the high school band to which the group belongs.

The stage crew was comprised of Jim Cline, Ron Givens and Ken Morris. Ushers were Tom Deem, Bill Mays, Gerald Williams and Steve Zubay.

Lighting was handled by Keith Langdon and costuming by Mrs. Ralph Widger and Mrs. William MacBurney.

In 'Voice Of Democracy' Contest

2 Students Are Honored

Two local high school students who finished first in the "Voice of Democracy" contest sponsored by VFW Post 66 and its Auxiliary are shown receiving their prizes and certificates from representatives of the two sponsoring groups.

Joe Torrence, left, chairman of the local program, is presenting the award to Barry Green, a senior at Beaver Local High, and Mrs. Ethelyn Sayre, president of the Auxiliary, right, to Patricia Wyche, a sophomore at East Liverpool High School.

THE PURPOSE of the program, which is sponsored by the VFW posts and its auxiliaries with the cooperation of the National and State Associations of Broadcasters, "is to encourage high school students to think and express themselves about our democratic way of life." This year's theme was "Democracy: What It Means To Me."

The scripts prepared by the students were transcribed on tape and then judged on content, originality and delivery.

First prize was $15, second $10 and third $5.

—:—

MISS WYCHE, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wyche of 1216 Pennsylvania Ave., also finished first on the county level. Green, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Green of Cannons Mills R.D. 1, was second. Both rated in the top six in the district level, which embraces nine counties.

The two students will be honored at a banquet May 13 at the post home.

Laymen Take Over Reins In Change At Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Laymen assume leadership of the University of Notre Dame today in an historic departure from the 125-year command by the Holy Cross fathers.

With the change, Notre Dame becomes the first major Roman Catholic institution of higher learning to entrust laymen with control — a move in keeping with the spirit of the Second Vatican Council.

The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, university president, set the tone for the new administration about the first of the year.

He said, "The time has come for laymen to share with Holy Cross priests the responsibility of governing this internationally recognized Roman Catholic institution."

Father Hesburgh said it was unrealistic to expect the six-member board of priests to guide the university in the same manner as in the past.

He also said the shift would not mean Notre Dame would become a secular university. He said failure to change with time would prompt "organizational arteriosclerosis."

As the change unfolded, a member of the faculty expressed pessimism about the future of Catholic colleges and universities.

Dr. Herbert L. Johnston, associate professor of philosophy, said in a paper for the Catholic Commission on Intellectual and Cultural Affairs meeting in Maryland today that "steadily increasing costs, the refusal of tax support, the proliferation of state university branches, and the drop in religious vocations" would cause Catholic universities to change.

He said well-established Catholic universities probably would survive but "it is also probable that they will become increasingly secular in the process."

Notre Dame has had an advisory board of laymen for over 10 years. The university was founded in 1842 by the Holy Cross Fathers. It grew from a log chapel to the present campus of 80 buildings, with enrollment of about 7,000. Its law school, established in 1869, is the oldest Catholic law school in the United States.

'Flying Objects' Discussed During Lions Club Meeting

The speaker, Kenneth Archibald, district engineer with the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. in Youngstown, told members UFOs were spotted at Rome in 200 B.C. and said there are more than 150 references to the objects in the Bible.

Archibald said he has seen "flying saucers" twice during his lifetime, once when one hovered over his home in Girard in 1952 and again when he and a friend spotted one in a field as they drove near Canfield. Both times, he noted, they appeared to be 20 feet high and about 150 feet in diameter.

He indicated he heard no noise coming from the objects, but did see lights in what appeared to be portholes.

He said that most people are reluctant to accept new ideas, especially concerning something they can't comprehend, but noted that many of Jules Verne's innovations in his book "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" were put into practice when the submarine "Nautilus" was launched several years ago.

President Ed Shingler announced the installation banquet will be June 3 in the Travelers Hotel at 7 p. m.

Members were told the recent minstrel netted the organization a profit of $855. The money will go into the sight - saving fund.

Lloyd Gille was program chairman.

Park Chapel Services Set

LISBON — Three ministerial associations will take turns by months this summer conducting religious services at 8:30 a.m. Sundays in Williamsport Chapel at Beaver Creek State Park.

The council bought the unused church on a bluff above Route 7 and renovated it as a worship center for campers and park visitors. Several hundred use the chapel last summer.

The first service this season is scheduled May 14. However, Chairman Van Redpath of Columbiana said it and the May 21 service will be canceled if the weather is bad. The regular schedule will run from May 28 through Sept. 3.

East Liverpool ministers will be in charge May 28 through June; Lisbon ministers will preach during July, and East Palestine ministers will conduct services Aug. 6 through Sept. 3.

Court Income Boosted $371

Municipal Court revenue hit $5,522 in April, a gain of $371 from the $5,151 in March, it was shown today in the monthly report of Clerk Wilbur J. Harmon.

The city treasury received $4,793 out of last month's receipts, up $359 from the $4,434 the municipality was paid in March. The city's share included $302 in costs from civil cases, $4,130 in fines, costs and forfeitures in criminal actions and $359 in penalties from State Highway Patrol cases.

In addition to the amount paid the city, the court turned over $384 to the state treasury, $251 to the county treasury and $93 to the Law Library Association.

The total amount handled by the court in April was $9,592, a drop of $296 from the $9,888 handled in March. The sums handled last month included $3,696 in the civil branch and $5,895 in the criminal branch.

Legal Grounds Held Lacking To Hit At Anti-Draft Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has told irate congressmen it lacks legal grounds for prosecuting anti-draft campaigners like Stokely Carmichael.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee charged Friday that the Justice Department seems reluctant to prosecute makers of "disgraceful, inflammatory speeches that hamper enforcement of the draft."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Fred Vinson told the panel, "No one has been prosecuted under the law because the department feels there have been no violations."

Vinson was responding to Rep. F. Edward Hebert's direct reference to Carmichael. The Louisiana Democrat wanted to know why Carmichael wasn't arrested for obstructing the military draft after he recently led students in chanting: "We aren't going. Hell no!"

Vinson termed Carmichael's utterance outrageous, but said it was protected under First Amendment guarantees of free speech and dissent. Carmichael is national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

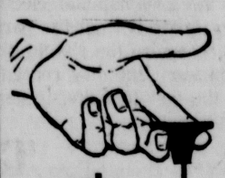

The Justice Department official challenged Rivers' contention the government is not prosecuting draft dodgers. He said the department's batting average this year has been .975.

"But your batting average in prosecuting people for violating this law obstructing recruiting is .000," fired back Hebert.

Prodded by the committee, Vinson promised the department would attempt to toughen the Selective Service law to deter inflammatory antidraft statements.

He won the panel's praise when he said the government planned to appeal a lower court decision holding unconstitutional a law making draft card-burning illegal.

The Sounds Are 'Magic' At ELHS Choral Concert

By CLARA HALL

Strains of Tijuana Brass, nostalgic melodies of Broadway and rhythmic folk songs produced beautiful music as the choral department of East Liverpool High School, under the direction of Robert Shankovich, presented its spring concert before a packed house Friday night at Westgate School.

The theme, "Sounds Magic," was appropriate as the various groups, costumed delightfully, presented their numbers, picking up tempo right along and keeping the audience completely interested.

The hit of the show was a takeoff from "West Side Story," with Don Edgar, Dan Morgan, Mac Ogilvie, Michael Savage and Wayne Christen performing as the "jet set" while the boys' chorus sang "Officer Krupke."

THERE WAS action a-plenty as the boys prepared for a "rumble," running down the aisle, throwing each other around and cutting up fanatically. A typical West Side setting was created for the background, with the usual "alley" scribbling on the fences.

Cathy Stover and Nancy Sturgeon accompanied the Concert Choir in the sacred numbers "Missa Brevis," "Kyrie," "Agnus Dei" and "May The God of Wit Inspire."

As they sang "Could Ye Not Watch With Me," several dancers were silhouetted before the brilliant blue screen. William Burlingame arranged the choreography.

The concluding numbers by the robed choir were "The Month of May" and "No Man Is An Island." Tom Arcuragi sang the baritone solo "O Lovely Night," with Mark Stover at the cello and Miss Stover at the piano.

Large playing cards were used on the sides and movable backdrops of stripes and circles in the center. The girls were attired in orange and yellow plaid shifts, designed with suspenders and patch pockets, with bandanas on their heads. The fellows wore bright plaid shirts.

As they sang "Gavotte," the silhouetted dancers were featured in a contrasting minuet and modern twist.

ONE OF THE most entertaining parts of the program was the humorous "choral verse" rendition of "Valse," with Mac Ogilvie giving the introduction.

The other numbers by the Junior Choir were "Sing Praises," "The Ash Grove," "Father William" and "What The World Needs Now Is Love."

A touch of Mexico was featured as they sang "The Lonely Bull," with a bright red glow focused over the entire group. Orange shoes set off their shift dresses of yellow and white trimmed with black.

Theatrical effects were created for the Broadway background at the finale offered by the Concert Choir. Beautiful purple lighting and flickering Broadway marquees were featured as the group passed about bright cerise masks.

The white brocade dresses of the girls were styled with large blue and green cabbage roses at the shoulders and large scallops of the same crepe paper at the hemline. The boys wore blue or green vests and arm bands.

Their lively numbers were "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Music To Watch Girls By" and "Mame." Catchy folk songs were "Deaf Woman's Courtship," "Hold My Mule" and "Moja Diridika." The boys sang "Quiet Girl."

Instrumentalists were Bob Fannin, percussion; Dan Morgan, guitar; George Grant, bass, and Jim Gritton, Stan Hargreaves, Gary Martin and Miss Starkey, trumpets. Don Adams is conductor of the high school band to which the group belongs.

Lighting was handled by Keith Langdon and costuming by Mrs. Ralph Widger and Mrs. William MacBurney.

2 Students Are Honored

Two local high school students who finished first in the "Voice of Democracy" contest sponsored by VFW Post 66 and its Auxiliary are shown receiving their prizes and certificates from representatives of the two sponsoring groups.

Joe Torrence, left, chairman of the local program, is presenting the award to Barry Green, a senior at Beaver Local High, and Mrs. Ethelyn Sayre, president of the Auxiliary, right, to Patricia Wyche, a sophomore at East Liverpool High School.

THE PURPOSE of the program, which is sponsored by the VFW posts and its auxiliaries with the cooperation of the National and State Associations of Broadcasters, "is to encourage high school students to think and express themselves about our democratic way of life." This year's theme was "Democracy: What It Means To Me."

The scripts prepared by the students were transcribed on tape and then judged on content, originality and delivery.

First prize was $15, second $10 and third $5.

—:—

MISS WYCHE, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wyche of 1216 Pennsylvania Ave., also finished first on the county level. Green, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Green of Cannons Mills R.D. 1, was second. Both rated in the top six in the district level, which embraces nine counties.

The two students will be honored at a banquet May 13 at the post home.

Laymen Take Over Reins In Change At Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Laymen assume leadership of the University of Notre Dame today in an historic departure from the 125-year command by the Holy Cross fathers.

With the change, Notre Dame becomes the first major Roman Catholic institution of higher learning to entrust laymen with control — a move in keeping with the spirit of the Second Vatican Council.

The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, university president, set the tone for the new administration about the first of the year.

He said, "The time has come for laymen to share with Holy Cross priests the responsibility of governing this internationally recognized Roman Catholic institution."

Father Hesburgh said it was unrealistic to expect the six-member board of priests to guide the university in the same manner as in the past.

He also said the shift would not mean Notre Dame would become a secular university. He said failure to change with time would prompt "organizational arteriosclerosis."

As the change unfolded, a member of the faculty expressed pessimism about the future of Catholic colleges and universities.

Dr. Herbert L. Johnston, associate professor of philosophy, said in a paper for the Catholic Commission on Intellectual and Cultural Affairs meeting in Maryland today that "steadily increasing costs, the refusal of tax support, the proliferation of state university branches, and the drop in religious vocations" would cause Catholic universities to change.

He said well-established Catholic universities probably would survive but "it is also probable that they will become increasingly secular in the process."

Notre Dame has had an advisory board of laymen for over 10 years. The university was founded in 1842 by the Holy Cross Fathers. It grew from a log chapel to the present campus of 80 buildings, with enrollment of about 7,000. Its law school, established in 1869, is the oldest Catholic law school in the United States.

'Flying Objects' Discussed During Lions Club Meeting

The speaker, Kenneth Archibald, district engineer with the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. in Youngstown, told members UFOs were spotted at Rome in 200 B.C. and said there are more than 150 references to the objects in the Bible.

Archibald said he has seen "flying saucers" twice during his lifetime, once when one hovered over his home in Girard in 1952 and again when he and a friend spotted one in a field as they drove near Canfield. Both times, he noted, they appeared to be 20 feet high and about 150 feet in diameter.

He indicated he heard no noise coming from the objects, but did see lights in what appeared to be portholes.

He said that most people are reluctant to accept new ideas, especially concerning something they can't comprehend, but noted that many of Jules Verne's innovations in his book "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" were put into practice when the submarine "Nautilus" was launched several years ago.

President Ed Shingler announced the installation banquet will be June 3 in the Travelers Hotel at 7 p. m.

Members were told the recent minstrel netted the organization a profit of $855. The money will go into the sight - saving fund.

Park Chapel Services Set

LISBON — Three ministerial associations will take turns by months this summer conducting religious services at 8:30 a.m. Sundays in Williamsport Chapel at Beaver Creek State Park.

The program was arranged by the chapel committee of the Columbiana County Forests and Parks Council.

The council bought the unused church on a bluff above Route 7 and renovated it as a worship center for campers and park visitors. Several hundred use the chapel last summer.

The first service this season is scheduled May 14. However, Chairman Van Redpath of Columbiana said it and the May 21 service will be canceled if the weather is bad. The regular schedule will run from May 28 through Sept. 3.

East Liverpool ministers will be in charge May 28 through June; Lisbon ministers will preach during July, and East Palestine ministers will conduct services Aug. 6 through Sept. 3.

Both lanes of westbound traffic on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. have been opened following Thursday night's land and rock slide which blocked the highway for several hours.

Court Income Boosted $371

Municipal Court revenue hit $5,522 in April, a gain of $371 from the $5,151 in March, it was shown today in the monthly report of Clerk Wilbur J. Harmon.

The city treasury received $4,793 out of last month's receipts, up $359 from the $4,434 the municipality was paid in March. The city's share included $302 in costs from civil cases, $4,130 in fines, costs and forfeitures in criminal actions and $359 in penalties from State Highway Patrol cases.

In addition to the amount paid the city, the court turned over $384 to the state treasury, $251 to the county treasury and $93 to the Law Library Association.

The total amount handled by the court in April was $9,592, a drop of $296 from the $9,888 handled in March. The sums handled last month included $3,696 in the civil branch and $5,895 in the criminal branch.

A breakdown of cases showed: 30 civil cases filed in April, 26 disposed of and 125 left pending; 50 city criminal cases filed, 48 disposed of and 71 pending, and 79 state criminal cases filed, 80 disposed of and 196 pending.

Legal Grounds Held Lacking To Hit At Anti-Draft Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has told irate congressmen it lacks legal grounds for prosecuting anti-draft campaigners like Stokely Carmichael.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee charged Friday that the Justice Department seems reluctant to prosecute makers of "disgraceful, inflammatory speeches that hamper enforcement of the draft."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Fred Vinson told the panel, "No one has been prosecuted under the law because the department feels there have been no violations."

Vinson was responding to Rep. F. Edward Hebert's direct reference to Carmichael. The Louisiana Democrat wanted to know why Carmichael wasn't arrested for obstructing the military draft after he recently led students in chanting: "We aren't going. Hell no!"

Vinson termed Carmichael's utterance outrageous, but said it was protected under First Amendment guarantees of free speech and dissent. Carmichael is national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

The Justice Department official challenged Rivers' contention the government is not prosecuting draft dodgers. He said the department's batting average this year has been .975.

"But your batting average in prosecuting people for violating this law obstructing recruiting is .000," fired back Hebert.

Prodded by the committee, Vinson promised the department would attempt to toughen the Selective Service law to deter inflammatory antidraft statements.

He won the panel's praise when he said the government planned to appeal a lower court decision holding unconstitutional a law making draft card-burning illegal.

Talking About Unity

If Hanoi is paying close attention to American discussion of the Vietnam War as it is said to be paying by U.S. warhawks, it should not take literally any statements about unity.

Southerners like Sen. Stennis of Mississippi, whose concept of unity never included civil rights, and public figures like former Sen. Goldwater of Arizona, who in 1964 freely criticized the way the Johnson administration was running the war, can talk about unity until they are out of breath without convincing anyone that discussion of the war really has been closed.

It's wide open.

The "white paper" prepared by the staff of the Senate Republican Policy Committee revealed what is going to happen.

Sen. Dirksen, who tried, cannot keep it from happening. Too many Republican senators, including some just as influential as Sen. Dirksen, want it to happen.

They view the Vietnam War as a potential issue in the 1968 national election. They do not want to isolate it from two-party discussion.

They recognize the risk in divisiveness during a major war. But they recognize, more importantly, the fact that divisiveness does exist and might well be the key issue in the 1968 election.

What politicians mean when they talk about unity is for all their critics to shut up and quit asking questions. When they talk about unity in connection with war, they always ring in the accusation that absence of unity gives aid and comfort to the enemy, whereas it gives aid and comfort to the people heading the government.

Nothing any politician can say will conceal from anyone in either Hanoi or Washington that 1968 is election year and the Vietnam War will be foremost in the people's attention if the war is still going on.

Democrats would love to bar the war issue in advance.

But the issue is here. That "white paper" prepared by the staff of the Senate Republican Policy Committee showed why it is here and why it isn't going away.

The Republican party would be derelict in its duty to serve as a loyal opposition if it let the Vietnam War issue go undiscussed by default.

Take One Giant Step

Nations around the world are looking to the Soviet Union now for an indication there may be a pullout of some Russian troops from Europe.

Diplomatic sources believe the announced withdrawal of 30,000 American troops and 6,500 British troops from West Germany may encourage the Soviet Union to pull back a portion of its troops across the border.

It is believed in some circles that Soviet military-political policy is being re-evaluated at the Kremlin level and there is a good chance for a troop pullback.

Should a reciprocal action transpire, it would be good because it would be a step toward lessening world tension; but it should be kept in the proper perspective. It would be just a step.

We still exist in a world where instant war is a possibility.

The value of troop withdrawal is not in lessening the chance for war; but rather in establishing a basis of good faith that will become the foundation for expanded economic relations.

From a military standpoint, the pullback of Russian troops across the German border is of minor consequence because they could move back to their former positions in no time flat should the occasion arise.

But from the economic view, those relatively few steps would amount to a single giant stride toward warming of the East-West trade climate.

GOP Return

Midland Republicans, whose activities have been near nil in recent months, have obtained an organizational leader, and may be ready to restore two-partyism to the borough.

Sam Zuppe has been named chairman of the GOP committee and is lining up candidates for three council and three school director posts plus borough auditor.

The large margin of Democrats registered in Midland has caused no little discouragement among Republicans, but there remains a clear-cut need for a party program.

It should be the responsibility of an opposition political minority in any community or state to offer the voter an alternative government philosphy and set of candidates.

To do less is to desert not just the party but the principles of American-style democracy.

The Right To Dissent

"We must guard every man's right to speak, but we must defend every man's right to answer."

It is not a statement that will appeal to the dissenters at whom it was directed.

The first clause offends because it punctures the aura of martyrdom in which a few of the protesters against the war in Vietnam in particular and the government in general have wrapped themselves.

It is difficult to be a martyr to a cause when authority defends your right to embrace that cause.

And since the President obviously includes himself and his administration in the second half of his sentence, this, too, will offend some dissenters.

To a small but loud-spoken minority of them, freedom of speech seems to mean the right to call the President of the United States a "buffoon," his secretary of defense a "racist" and his secretary of state a "murderer."

It does not entail the right of these men to reply.

The President's statement should now make it clear that this is neither his way nor the traditional American way of doing things.

It is unfortunate that there have been some attempts in and out of government to equate dissent wih disloyaly or to shift the responsibility for the war on those who oppose it.

Even if the President himself may occasionally default on his own words in defense of dissent, the fact remains that the war dissenters are and have been and will continue to be free to protest and demonstrate and express themselves all they want.

That they have so far failed to sway either the government or any great numbers of the people is more an indictment of their ideas and tactics than would be any misguided official or unofficial attempts to suppress them.

History will determine whether the dissenters are right or wrong about Vietnam. But one thing can be said with certainty today:

The President was never more right than when he said that freedom of speech will never harm America "as long as we remember it is a two-way street."

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: We have read your remarks about unity and disagree with everything you say.

We are not even sure we think you had a right to say it.

When you say an American has the right and the duty to say what he thinks when he thinks his government is wrong, you are talking irresponsibly.

You are talking about the right of an individual living in some never-never land where no such thing as national responsibility existed.

In time of war, everybody must shut up and stand shoulder to shoulder. This is what it means to be a nation. When the chips are down, we must hang together or hang separately, as one of our forefathers said.

When you were messing around with football in your youth, you once told us what was the most important thing you learned.

You said it was teamwork in a game being played for keeps. You told us about a quarterback named Bobby was letting other players second-guess him and causing the other players to feel uncertain. We remember only the boy's first name.

You told us things got so bad the coach called a special meeting to explain why Bobby must have command. There was no other way to do it, he explained.

Bobby might not be the greatest, he said, but he was the best of a bad lot. Therefore, the only way to keep the game from falling apart was to put Bobby in command.

Anyone who felt like mouthing-off at Bobby's expense would be asked to turn in his uniform. You told us it worked fine after that. You achieved unity.

You admitted that good old Bobby was prone to blow his cool and get rattled; that he once called for a triple pass when your team was on its own goal line and the final ball carrier was in the front row of the bleachers in the end zone when pinned to earth.

But you had achieved unity, you pointed out. You lost your games from then on with precision. Everything was shipshape, and that was the main idea.

Otherwise, the team would have had to disband. Its energies would have had to be channeled into something else. The coach would have had to find other employment.

No uniforms would have been bought. No hot dogs and pop would have been sold. The enterprise system would have been undermined.

We've always remembered your story about Bobby. Today's coaches keep things running smoothly by making their own bloopers. They call all the plays themselves, from the bench. That used to be illegal. So it had to be legalized for the sake of unity.

We cannot have dissenters lousing up the game. We must have unity, even if it's the last thing we do. We must never let the opposition know our Bobbies are capable of calling triple passes on their own goal line if no one stops them.

Right?

The Monkey On His Back

A Warning To The GOP

By Raymond Moley

When our country is at war, no political party can afford to claim a monopoly on patriotism.

The President is responsible for the conduct of the war. It is wise for the opposition party to support him.

Public opinion follows the sense of those homely axioms, and for that reason, if for no other, political prudence demands part conformity to what the people believe to be right. All history supports those axions.

I have misgivings about expressing these views in a political context. Wholly aside from the question of political advantage, the simple virtues of patriotism and the national and the free world's self-interest should challenge every American to support the war in Vietnam.

It is essential to all of us that Communist aggression in Southeast Asia shall not prevail.

I am expressing only the basic proposition that a great majority of Republicans have articulated through leaders and policy committees. In supporting the President, they are not only morally but politically right.

The Republican party cannot afford to tell Hanoi that, if a GOP candidate is elected in 1968, it can have peace on its own terms.

Some Republicans who choose to plant one foot on the firm ground that we cannot withdraw from Vietnam while they place the other foot close to Democratic critics of the war, such as the Fulbrights, the Morses, the McGoverns and a number of Democratic academicians and clergymen.

TWO "YES-BUT" Republicans are Sens. Thruston Morton, a power in the GOP, and Charles Percy who, despite his short notitiate in politics, is sometimes suggested as a compromise candidate for president in 1968.

After Gen. William Westmoreland spoke before the Associated Press, Sen. Morton assailed the President for bringing the general home and claimed that this was to stifle dissent, presumably Democratic dissent. He called it "verbal overkill."

He challenged the general for expressing exactly what Sen. Morton is defending — the right to dissent. The general was dissenting from the dissenters.

Gen. Westmoreland peformed a useful service, not only in bringing out facts about the progress of the war, but in inspiring all of us with an account of the morale and determination of the troops under his command.

Since he has access to captured documents, captive prisoners and defectors, he is the best person on our side to tell us of the impact of Hanoi's belief that there is opposition to the war here at home.

Hanoi's will to persist centers in that belief. It is something we should know, and it should be a guide to our words and conduct.

The day before Gen. Westmoreland spoke, Sen. Percy complained on a television interview that as a senator he had been unable to learn from the Defense Department of any requests from Gen. Westmoreland for additional troops.

To comply with such a request from a senator other than the chairman of the Armed Services Committee would be an intolerable revelation of military plans.

SENATORS ARE traditionally very "leaky" vessels. Sen. Percy's further suggestion that such information should be discussed by Sen. J. W. Fulbright's Foreign Relations Committee was pure naivete.

His presumption was compounded when he voiced strong objections to bombing enemy airfields. That is a matter for the President and his military advisers to decide. It is none of the business of senators.

But Sen. Percy's complaint will be interpeted in Hanoi to indicate that the United States lacks the courage to protect is own air force.

There has always been something overly academic about Sen. Percy's approach to public problems. In this business of allying himself with Democratic critics of the President there is also a silly assumption that it is the way to win Democratic votes.

The Republican party and all its responsible leaders must realize that in the many months before the 1968 election this war may take a decided turn for the better or even result in bringing Hanoi to terms. In that case doves in either party will find themselves in a politically intolerable climate.

There was never a war in our history in which opposition at home was more vehement than "Mr. Madison's War" in 1812-15. But Jackson's victory at New Orleans not only cemented the hold of the Virginia Dynasty on the presidency but destroyed forever the Federalist party of opposition.

Odd Facts

The world's most important industry is agriculture. The main branches of agriculture include crop-raising, dairying, ranching, poultry-raising, and fruit-growing. In addition to this, there are the businesses that process, package, and sell farm products and livestock to the market, and the other industries that make fertilizers, tools, and machines for farming.

Flying squirrels do not really fly. They glide for long distances from high points to the ground by means of the extensible skin which spreads out like a plane's wings from the forefeet to the hind feet.

Home owners in the United States are today spending about $6.6 million a year for home improvements and repairs.

The only instance of its kind in the world in which a national constitution was drafted before the government itself was established is that of the United States.

Although Eskimos are born and spend most of their lives near the water, they seldom learn to swim. Much too cold.

GOP Thin Ice

By David Lawrence

Study Group Seen Hazard

Republicans are skating on thin ice.

The report of more than 90 typewritten pages issued by the so-called "study" group or "staff" of the Senate Republican Policy Committee is, in its innuendoes and inferences, so much at variance with administration policy it immediately evoked from J. Wiliam Fulbright, Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a favorable comment.

He said the "study" is "the most encouaging bit of news I've seen lately," and added that it furnishes "the only break in the clouds I've seen for some time."

When a Republican staff manages to present a report that calls forth the praise of Sen. Fulbright, it creates the impression that Republicans could be preparing to withdraw from the President of the United States their support of the Vietnam war.

Several Republicans, including Sen. Everett Dirksen, minority leader in the Senate, promptly disavowed any such intention.

Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, who as chairman of the Policy Committee distributed the report, stated flatly the staff was instructed that "the study wsa not to be a Republican platform attempt" and was simply a document that would set "a pattern of conduct for Republicans, politically."

Apologies and explanations came afterwards from various Republicans, some of whom felt the document should not have been first released to them has been "misinterpreted."

The art of confusing the reader was never practiced with more skill than in this "study."

It says, for instance, in the introduction that the Vietnam War has assumed "unusual dimensions" and that among other things this "means not knowing at any given moment precisely who the enemy is."

The Department has again and again made it clear that both the Soviet Union and Red China are supplying arms and ammunition, airplanes and the trained advisers to support the North Vietnamese army and the Viet Cong.

The "study" points out that, while the United States has mobilized 500,000 men "to battle Communism, neither the Soviet Union nor Red China — the great communist powers — has found it necessary to commit troops."

Realistically speaking, of course, the Red Chinese and Soviets don't have to put their uniforms on any of the troops in North Vietnam, but plenty of their officers wear the garb of the North Vietnamese.

The "study" also emphasizes that the Vietnam War "means enormous discretionary powers assumed by the President, with Congress asked to approve his actions after the fact."

This has been true in every war in history. It was even more applicable in the Korean War, when no resolution whatsoever was adopted by Congress.

Yet, President Truman was given support, and a large American army was sent to fight under auspices of the United Nations and with an American general in command.

The staff "study" contains for the most part interesting historical information, but in the concluding paragraphs it asks these pertinent questions:

"Does the Republican party serve America best by saying that politics stops at the water's edge? That we must rally behind the President? Does bipartisanship mean that Democratic mistakes are Republican responsibilities?"

The authors of the document left an impression that their rhetorical answer is a resounding "no" and that, in effect, politics must rule, irrespective of how much the current dissension may give the enemy reason to believe that, if it waits until the 1968 election, the United States may pull out of Vietnam.

To argue that the Vietnam war must be treated as a political issue is to put the Republican leadership in Congress in a very uncomfortable position.

Talking About Unity

If Hanoi is paying close attention to American discussion of the Vietnam War as it is said to be paying by U.S. warhawks, it should not take literally any statements about unity.

Southerners like Sen. Stennis of Mississippi, whose concept of unity never included civil rights, and public figures like former Sen. Goldwater of Arizona, who in 1964 freely criticized the way the Johnson administration was running the war, can talk about unity until they are out of breath without convincing anyone that discussion of the war really has been closed.

It's wide open.

The "white paper" prepared by the staff of the Senate Republican Policy Committee revealed what is going to happen.

Sen. Dirksen, who tried, cannot keep it from happening. Too many Republican senators, including some just as influential as Sen. Dirksen, want it to happen.

They view the Vietnam War as a potential issue in the 1968 national election. They do not want to isolate it from two-party discussion.

They recognize the risk in divisiveness during a major war. But they recognize, more importantly, the fact that divisiveness does exist and might well be the key issue in the 1968 election.

What politicians mean when they talk about unity is for all their critics to shut up and quit asking questions. When they talk about unity in connection with war, they always ring in the accusation that absence of unity gives aid and comfort to the enemy, whereas it gives aid and comfort to the people heading the government.

Nothing any politician can say will conceal from anyone in either Hanoi or Washington that 1968 is election year and the Vietnam War will be foremost in the people's attention if the war is still going on.

Democrats would love to bar the war issue in advance.

But the issue is here. That "white paper" prepared by the staff of the Senate Republican Policy Committee showed why it is here and why it isn't going away.

The Republican party would be derelict in its duty to serve as a loyal opposition if it let the Vietnam War issue go undiscussed by default.

Take One Giant Step

Nations around the world are looking to the Soviet Union now for an indication there may be a pullout of some Russian troops from Europe.

Diplomatic sources believe the announced withdrawal of 30,000 American troops and 6,500 British troops from West Germany may encourage the Soviet Union to pull back a portion of its troops across the border.

It is believed in some circles that Soviet military-political policy is being re-evaluated at the Kremlin level and there is a good chance for a troop pullback.

Should a reciprocal action transpire, it would be good because it would be a step toward lessening world tension; but it should be kept in the proper perspective. It would be just a step.

We still exist in a world where instant war is a possibility.

The value of troop withdrawal is not in lessening the chance for war; but rather in establishing a basis of good faith that will become the foundation for expanded economic relations.

From a military standpoint, the pullback of Russian troops across the German border is of minor consequence because they could move back to their former positions in no time flat should the occasion arise.

But from the economic view, those relatively few steps would amount to a single giant stride toward warming of the East-West trade climate.

GOP Return

Midland Republicans, whose activities have been near nil in recent months, have obtained an organizational leader, and may be ready to restore two-partyism to the borough.

Sam Zuppe has been named chairman of the GOP committee and is lining up candidates for three council and three school director posts plus borough auditor.

The large margin of Democrats registered in Midland has caused no little discouragement among Republicans, but there remains a clear-cut need for a party program.

It should be the responsibility of an opposition political minority in any community or state to offer the voter an alternative government philosphy and set of candidates.

To do less is to desert not just the party but the principles of American-style democracy.

The Right To Dissent

President Johnson put it succinctly.

"We must guard every man's right to speak, but we must defend every man's right to answer."

It is not a statement that will appeal to the dissenters at whom it was directed.

The first clause offends because it punctures the aura of martyrdom in which a few of the protesters against the war in Vietnam in particular and the government in general have wrapped themselves.

It is difficult to be a martyr to a cause when authority defends your right to embrace that cause.

And since the President obviously includes himself and his administration in the second half of his sentence, this, too, will offend some dissenters.

To a small but loud-spoken minority of them, freedom of speech seems to mean the right to call the President of the United States a "buffoon," his secretary of defense a "racist" and his secretary of state a "murderer."

It does not entail the right of these men to reply.

The President's statement should now make it clear that this is neither his way nor the traditional American way of doing things.

It is unfortunate that there have been some attempts in and out of government to equate dissent wih disloyaly or to shift the responsibility for the war on those who oppose it.

Even if the President himself may occasionally default on his own words in defense of dissent, the fact remains that the war dissenters are and have been and will continue to be free to protest and demonstrate and express themselves all they want.

That they have so far failed to sway either the government or any great numbers of the people is more an indictment of their ideas and tactics than would be any misguided official or unofficial attempts to suppress them.

History will determine whether the dissenters are right or wrong about Vietnam. But one thing can be said with certainty today:

The President was never more right than when he said that freedom of speech will never harm America "as long as we remember it is a two-way street."

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: We have read your remarks about unity and disagree with everything you say.

We are not even sure we think you had a right to say it.

When you say an American has the right and the duty to say what he thinks when he thinks his government is wrong, you are talking irresponsibly.

You are talking about the right of an individual living in some never-never land where no such thing as national responsibility existed.

In time of war, everybody must shut up and stand shoulder to shoulder. This is what it means to be a nation. When the chips are down, we must hang together or hang separately, as one of our forefathers said.

When you were messing around with football in your youth, you once told us what was the most important thing you learned.

You said it was teamwork in a game being played for keeps. You told us about a quarterback named Bobby was letting other players second-guess him and causing the other players to feel uncertain. We remember only the boy's first name.

You told us things got so bad the coach called a special meeting to explain why Bobby must have command. There was no other way to do it, he explained.

Bobby might not be the greatest, he said, but he was the best of a bad lot. Therefore, the only way to keep the game from falling apart was to put Bobby in command.

Anyone who felt like mouthing-off at Bobby's expense would be asked to turn in his uniform. You told us it worked fine after that. You achieved unity.

You admitted that good old Bobby was prone to blow his cool and get rattled; that he once called for a triple pass when your team was on its own goal line and the final ball carrier was in the front row of the bleachers in the end zone when pinned to earth.

But you had achieved unity, you pointed out. You lost your games from then on with precision. Everything was shipshape, and that was the main idea.

Otherwise, the team would have had to disband. Its energies would have had to be channeled into something else. The coach would have had to find other employment.

No uniforms would have been bought. No hot dogs and pop would have been sold. The enterprise system would have been undermined.

We've always remembered your story about Bobby. Today's coaches keep things running smoothly by making their own bloopers. They call all the plays themselves, from the bench. That used to be illegal. So it had to be legalized for the sake of unity.

We cannot have dissenters lousing up the game. We must have unity, even if it's the last thing we do. We must never let the opposition know our Bobbies are capable of calling triple passes on their own goal line if no one stops them.

Right?

The Monkey On His Back

A Warning To The GOP

By Raymond Moley

When our country is at war, no political party can afford to claim a monopoly on patriotism.

The President is responsible for the conduct of the war. It is wise for the opposition party to support him.

Public opinion follows the sense of those homely axioms, and for that reason, if for no other, political prudence demands part conformity to what the people believe to be right. All history supports those axions.

I have misgivings about expressing these views in a political context. Wholly aside from the question of political advantage, the simple virtues of patriotism and the national and the free world's self-interest should challenge every American to support the war in Vietnam.

It is essential to all of us that Communist aggression in Southeast Asia shall not prevail.

I am expressing only the basic proposition that a great majority of Republicans have articulated through leaders and policy committees. In supporting the President, they are not only morally but politically right.

The Republican party cannot afford to tell Hanoi that, if a GOP candidate is elected in 1968, it can have peace on its own terms.

Some Republicans who choose to plant one foot on the firm ground that we cannot withdraw from Vietnam while they place the other foot close to Democratic critics of the war, such as the Fulbrights, the Morses, the McGoverns and a number of Democratic academicians and clergymen.

TWO "YES-BUT" Republicans are Sens. Thruston Morton, a power in the GOP, and Charles Percy who, despite his short notitiate in politics, is sometimes suggested as a compromise candidate for president in 1968.

After Gen. William Westmoreland spoke before the Associated Press, Sen. Morton assailed the President for bringing the general home and claimed that this was to stifle dissent, presumably Democratic dissent. He called it "verbal overkill."

He challenged the general for expressing exactly what Sen. Morton is defending — the right to dissent. The general was dissenting from the dissenters.

Gen. Westmoreland peformed a useful service, not only in bringing out facts about the progress of the war, but in inspiring all of us with an account of the morale and determination of the troops under his command.

Since he has access to captured documents, captive prisoners and defectors, he is the best person on our side to tell us of the impact of Hanoi's belief that there is opposition to the war here at home.

Hanoi's will to persist centers in that belief. It is something we should know, and it should be a guide to our words and conduct.

Harry Stockdale, county sanitarian, made the request for a preliminary survey to determine if any portion of the County Home could qualify for the medicare program.

Slates' letter said a full survey would be needed to determine compliance. He said application for an extended care facility should be made to the administrator of the nursing home program at Columbus.

County commissioners received a copy of the letter.

Slates said he found sanitation of the total home "in good order" with these exceptions: The butcher shop — "walls, ceiling and floor are in poor repair and dirty;" and home canned foods — "these can be extremely dangerous because of the occurrence of botulism due to improper processing." Slates said freezing would be an acceptable method of preservation.

Home's Hospital May Qualify For Medicare Action

LISBON — The new $440,000 hospital at the Columbiana County Home may meet requirements for an extended care facility under medicare, "as far as the physical plant is concerned."

Jesse Slates of the northeast Ohio district health office at Cuyahoga Falls made this report Thursday by letter to Dr. M. K. Singer, county health commissioner.

Harry Stockdale, county sanitarian, made the request for a preliminary survey to determine if any portion of the County Home could qualify for the medicare program.

Slates' letter said a full survey would be needed to determine compliance. He said application for an extended care facility should be made to the administrator of the nursing home program at Columbus.

County commissioners received a copy of the letter.

Slates said he found sanitation of the total home "in good order" with these exceptions: The butcher shop — "walls, ceiling and floor are in poor repair and dirty;" and home canned foods — "these can be extremely dangerous because of the occurrence of botulism due to improper processing." Slates said freezing would be an acceptable method of preservation.

Pope Expected To Keep Secret In Fatima Visit

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The fate predicted for the world in the famous 1917 "Secret of Fatima" is likely to be kept a mystery when Pope Paul VI visits the Fatima shrine in Portugal next Saturday, Vatican sources said today.

The secret has been locked up in Vatican City since it was entrusted to the papacy by a shepherd girl, Lucia dos Santos, who is said to have seen the Virgin Mary in an apparition. She is now Sister Lucy, a 60-year-old Carmelite nun.

Vatican sources said Pope Paul probably will wait a considerable time before revealing the written prophesy. Scattered hints coming out of the Vatican in recent years indicate the secret is an optimistic prediction of an epoch of growing universal peace—not a presage of impending doom.

On May 13 Pope Paul will fly to the rugged and once-isolated spot where Sister Lucy and two young cousins reported seeing a "lady in white" in six successive monthly visions beginning May 13, 1917.

The children said she asked for more prayers by mankind, especially for the conversion of the Soviet Union from communism, and predicted the global conflict that was to be World War II.

Lucia said the "lady in white" also gave her a message for the Pope, which Lucia memorized and later wrote down in Portuguese. She gave it to her bishop in a sealed envelope. The message was sent to the Pope with instructions Lucia said she had been given: that it must remain unread until 1960.

Pope John XXIII opened the envelope and read the message sometime between 1960 and 1963 and showed it to Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani. Then, deciding the message should not be made public, Pope John resealed it. He died in June 1963.

When Pope Paul addresses pilgrims—more than a million are expected—on his 13-hour trip to Fatima next week, it is thought he may mention the Fatima secret in passing without disclosing what it is.

Cardinal Ottaviani, however, told a gathering in Rome last February that "morbid and alarmist" speculation about the Fatima message was "entirely false." The cautious, conservative Italian cardinal who directs the Vatican Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith also spoke of "the confidence the message of Fatima inspires."

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION

What Is The Standard Of Right And Wrong?

Sometimes people ask us if we believe that we are the only ones right and that all who differ with us are wrong. In recent articles we have been trying to give some of our reasons concerning our beliefs and practices. Thus in the article today we would like to deal with this question.

No, I do not believe that I am right and that everyone else is wrong. Neither do I know of anyone who is a member of the Church of Christ, who would take this position. Our position could be stated this way: "Those who agree with God and His Word are right and those who differ with the Word of God are wrong."

Let me show you some scriptures that make it clear that this position is true.

First, let us notice this statement of Paul in Rom. 3:4 ". . . Yea, let God be true, but every man a liar." This statement is very strong. Paul made it clear that when man and God differ, God is always true. Man must be speaking a lie if he is saying something that contradicts God. It is impossible for God to lie.

Another statement which upholds this position is made by the Apostle Peter in 2 Pet. 2:1-2. "But there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction. And many shall follow their pernicious ways; by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of." In these verses Peter makes known the fact that some would come along who would teach things that God did not authorize. Because of their false teaching, people would be led astray. God's "way of truth" is right and the ways of these false teachers are wrong.

These verses and many others similar to them in the Bible, help us to be able to see that God is right and all who teach and practice things that He did not authorize are wrong.

Thus it is not a fair statement to say that the members of the Church of Christ believe that they are right and that everyone else is wrong. Our belief is that God's word is right. This is the reason that we are always urging people to be sure that their doctrine and teaching is according to the Word of God. There are many things being taught today that have their origin with men. Since we are warned that the doctrines and commandments of men are vain, we cannot afford to be following man. (Mt. 15: 8, 9). We need to be perfectly sure that we are following God and His Word.

Have you taken the time to check your religion? If we could be of any help to you in making sure about your religion, please feel free to let us know.

Pope Expected To Keep Secret In Fatima Visit

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The fate predicted for the world in the famous 1917 "Secret of Fatima" is likely to be kept a mystery when Pope Paul VI visits the Fatima shrine in Portugal next Saturday, Vatican sources said today.

The secret has been locked up in Vatican City since it was entrusted to the papacy by a shepherd girl, Lucia dos Santos, who is said to have seen the Virgin Mary in an apparition. She is now Sister Lucy, a 60-year-old Carmelite nun.

Vatican sources said Pope Paul probably will wait a considerable time before revealing the written prophesy. Scattered hints coming out of the Vatican in recent years indicate the secret is an optimistic prediction of an epoch of growing universal peace—not a presage of impending doom.

On May 13 Pope Paul will fly to the rugged and once-isolated spot where Sister Lucy and two young cousins reported seeing a "lady in white" in six successive monthly visions beginning May 13, 1917.

The children said she asked for more prayers by mankind, especially for the conversion of the Soviet Union from communism, and predicted the global conflict that was to be World War II.

Lucia said the "lady in white" also gave her a message for the Pope, which Lucia memorized and later wrote down in Portuguese. She gave it to her bishop in a sealed envelope. The message was sent to the Pope with instructions Lucia said she had been given: that it must remain unread until 1960.

Pope John XXIII opened the envelope and read the message sometime between 1960 and 1963 and showed it to Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani. Then, deciding the message should not be made public, Pope John resealed it. He died in June 1963.

When Pope Paul addresses pilgrims—more than a million are expected—on his 13-hour trip to Fatima next week, it is thought he may mention the Fatima secret in passing without disclosing what it is.

Cardinal Ottaviani, however, told a gathering in Rome last February that "morbid and alarmist" speculation about the Fatima message was "entirely false." The cautious, conservative Italian cardinal who directs the Vatican Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith also spoke of "the confidence the message of Fatima inspires."

Stating that present day technology has provided society with an abundance of everything, he said we are living in an era where Christians seem to have failed and the government has taken over.

Mrs. Eva Pittenger led the worship service and presided for the responsive readings. Taking the part of the "voices" were Miss Mildred Rose of the First Church of Christ, Mrs. Richard Walker of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran and Mrs. Wesley Montgomery of Trinity.

Mrs. Kenneth Johnson read the Scripture and sang "One God." Mrs. William Sutherland, organist, accompanied the group singing of "All People That On Earth Do Dwell" and "Joy To The World."

The offering was received by Mrs. Richard Brian, Mrs. Ralph Mackall, Mrs. Leonard Kupchinsky and Mrs. Harold Dray.

Officers introduced were Mrs. John Keller, First Church of Christ, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Boso, First Baptist Church, recording secretary; Mrs. Caesar Peters, Second Baptist Church, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. John Conley, Grace United Presbyterian, treasurer. Mrs. Alberta McLain, First Methodist Church, first vice president, was unable to be present.

An arrangement of tulips and lilacs decorated the head table. Pastel streamers were used to center all the tables. Favors were tulip mint cups.

Rev. Toot gave the invocation and benediction.

The next observance for the church women will be World Community Day Nov. 3. The executive board will meet in September.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION

What Is The Standard Of Right And Wrong?

Sometimes people ask us if we believe that we are the only ones right and that all who differ with us are wrong. In recent articles we have been trying to give some of our reasons concerning our beliefs and practices. Thus in the article today we would like to deal with this question.

No, I do not believe that I am right and that everyone else is wrong. Neither do I know of anyone who is a member of the Church of Christ, who would take this position. Our position could be stated this way: "Those who agree with God and His Word are right and those who differ with the Word of God are wrong."

Let me show you some scriptures that make it clear that this position is true.

First, let us notice this statement of Paul in Rom. 3:4 ". . . Yea, let God be true, but every man a liar." This statement is very strong. Paul made it clear that when man and God differ, God is always true. Man must be speaking a lie if he is saying something that contradicts God. It is impossible for God to lie.

Another statement which upholds this position is made by the Apostle Peter in 2 Pet. 2:1-2. "But there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction. And many shall follow their pernicious ways; by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of." In these verses Peter makes known the fact that some would come along who would teach things that God did not authorize. Because of their false teaching, people would be led astray. God's "way of truth" is right and the ways of these false teachers are wrong.

These verses and many others similar to them in the Bible, help us to be able to see that God is right and all who teach and practice things that He did not authorize are wrong.

Thus it is not a fair statement to say that the members of the Church of Christ believe that they are right and that everyone else is wrong. Our belief is that God's word is right. This is the reason that we are always urging people to be sure that their doctrine and teaching is according to the Word of God. There are many things being taught today that have their origin with men. Since we are warned that the doctrines and commandments of men are vain, we cannot afford to be following man. (Mt. 15: 8, 9). We need to be perfectly sure that we are following God and His Word.

Have you taken the time to check your religion? If we could be of any help to you in making sure about your religion, please feel free to let us know.

OBC Defeat Hits Plans Of Universities

COLUMBUS, Ohio -- Defeat of the Ohio Bond Commission (O B C) proposal was particularly shattering to plans laid by the Ohio Board of Regents, which administers higher education in the state.

Regents were set for a $425 million capital improvements bonanza from the OBC, including $125 million in federal matching funds.

One possibility already has been suggested by Ohio University's outspoken president, Vernon R. Alden: higher tuition fees.

"We'd looked to the OBC not only for capital financing, but also as possible encouragement to the legislature for more operating funds," Alden said.

Faculty recruitment and salary increases for faculty and nonteaching employes could be jeopardized, he said, unless "substantial increases in tuition charges" are made.

Just why the OBC failure has hit university officials so hard might be found in the Board of Regents' proposed budget for the 1968-1969 biennium.

The board asked for $338 million for operations over the two-year period. But Gov. James A. Rhodes' budget presented in February was a huge $88 million less.

The problem all to apparent to university officials is that the administration, rapped hard by Ohio voters on the OBC, could take the cue and stay away from any sizable hikes in taxes to cover the additional operating proposals.

Which could put that extra $88 million out of the picture for the time being.

European Visit Eagerly Awaited By Family Of 12

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Paul J. Palazzolo family — all 13 of them — are invading Europe this summer.

Palazzolo, operator of a doughnut company, will take off next week with his wife, seven sons and four daughters on a four-month trip that will range from Iceland and Ireland to Sicily and back north to Copenhagen.

"We have been planning this for a long time," Mrs. Palazzolo said shortly before a farewell party given by her neighbors. "I can hardly remember what we did before we got started on all the preparations."

The Palazzolo children range in age from 1 to 17 and the family plans to do most of its traveling in a Volkswagen bus they will pick up at Dublin.

The Palazzolos wrote hundreds of letters to set up the trip. Their itinerary includes an audience with Pope Paul VI, an interview with President Asgeir Asgeirsson of Iceland, a party with the Vienna Boys' Choir and taking part in an antique car parade to Lucerne, Switzerland.

"We took a trip to Europe six or seven years ago and stayed for two months," Mrs. Palazzolo recalled. "Just my husband and I. We missed the children so much we realized that if we ever made a trip again, we'd have to take them all along."

West Point Group Honors Spellman For His Service

He will be honored at a brigade review and afterwards will address the corps of cadets at luncheon in Washington Hall.

Cardinal Spellman was chosen as the "distinguished citizen whose service to the national interests exemplify outstanding devotion to the ideals expressed in the Military Academy's motto, 'Duty, Honor, Country.'"

Previous recipients of the award include former President Dwight D. Eisenhower; educator Dr. James B. Conant; Henry Cabot Lodge, recently resigned U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, and the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Cardinal Spellman, who was 78 Thursday, is archbishop of New York and Roman Catholic military vicar of the U.S. Armed Forces. The latter is also a church title, which makes him in effect the bishop of all U.S. Catholics in military service.

He is a strong supporter of U.S. policy in Vietnam, and his outspokenness has made him a center of controversy. His church, St. Patrick's Cathedral on New York's Fifth Avenue, has been the target of peace demonstrators.

OBC Defeat Hits Plans Of Universities

COLUMBUS, Ohio -- Defeat of the Ohio Bond Commission (O B C) proposal was particularly shattering to plans laid by the Ohio Board of Regents, which administers higher education in the state.

Regents were set for a $425 million capital improvements bonanza from the OBC, including $125 million in federal matching funds.

One possibility already has been suggested by Ohio University's outspoken president, Vernon R. Alden: higher tuition fees.

"We'd looked to the OBC not only for capital financing, but also as possible encouragement to the legislature for more operating funds," Alden said.

Faculty recruitment and salary increases for faculty and nonteaching employes could be jeopardized, he said, unless "substantial increases in tuition charges" are made.

Just why the OBC failure has hit university officials so hard might be found in the Board of Regents' proposed budget for the 1968-1969 biennium.

The board asked for $338 million for operations over the two-year period. But Gov. James A. Rhodes' budget presented in February was a huge $88 million less.

The problem all to apparent to university officials is that the administration, rapped hard by Ohio voters on the OBC, could take the cue and stay away from any sizable hikes in taxes to cover the additional operating proposals.

Which could put that extra $88 million out of the picture for the time being.

European Visit Eagerly Awaited By Family Of 12

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Paul J. Palazzolo family — all 13 of them — are invading Europe this summer.

Palazzolo, operator of a doughnut company, will take off next week with his wife, seven sons and four daughters on a four-month trip that will range from Iceland and Ireland to Sicily and back north to Copenhagen.

"We have been planning this for a long time," Mrs. Palazzolo said shortly before a farewell party given by her neighbors. "I can hardly remember what we did before we got started on all the preparations."

The Palazzolo children range in age from 1 to 17 and the family plans to do most of its traveling in a Volkswagen bus they will pick up at Dublin.

The Palazzolos wrote hundreds of letters to set up the trip. Their itinerary includes an audience with Pope Paul VI, an interview with President Asgeir Asgeirsson of Iceland, a party with the Vienna Boys' Choir and taking part in an antique car parade to Lucerne, Switzerland.

"We took a trip to Europe six or seven years ago and stayed for two months," Mrs. Palazzolo recalled. "Just my husband and I. We missed the children so much we realized that if we ever made a trip again, we'd have to take them all along."

West Point Group Honors Spellman For His Service

He will be honored at a brigade review and afterwards will address the corps of cadets at luncheon in Washington Hall.

Cardinal Spellman was chosen as the "distinguished citizen whose service to the national interests exemplify outstanding devotion to the ideals expressed in the Military Academy's motto, 'Duty, Honor, Country.'"

Previous recipients of the award include former President Dwight D. Eisenhower; educator Dr. James B. Conant; Henry Cabot Lodge, recently resigned U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, and the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Cardinal Spellman, who was 78 Thursday, is archbishop of New York and Roman Catholic military vicar of the U.S. Armed Forces. The latter is also a church title, which makes him in effect the bishop of all U.S. Catholics in military service.

He is a strong supporter of U.S. policy in Vietnam, and his outspokenness has made him a center of controversy. His church, St. Patrick's Cathedral on New York's Fifth Avenue, has been the target of peace demonstrators.

The Super-Thinkers

By Robert Popp

For hundreds of years the western world has buzzed with vague rumors of a colony of supermen deep in the most remote recesses of Africa that follows a monastic life and combines its intelligence and detached philosophical attitudes for the benefit of all mankind.

Like the myth of Prester John and his Kingdom, the story carried into the jet age, when the tiniest and most remote sources of the Blue and White Niles had been mapped and progress was being made even on a cure for the common cold.

The stories persisted, as elusive as the tales of the Lost Dutchman Gold Mine, the Holy Grail, the Knights of the Roundtable and the year the Washington Senators won the American League pennant.

In the deepest mountain fastness of India, an itinerant story teller would hold a crowd of illiterate villagers spellbound as he recited tales of the inhabitants.

Dozens of novels were based on the altruistic work of the legendary order. It became the subject of a radio drama in the mid-1930's, but the ultimate exposure occured in 1967 when the tales were woven into a television series to run opposite "Bonanza" on Sunday nights.

Romanticized drawings of the settlement's inhabitants sometimes accompanied magazine articles speculating on its existence. Drawn in Southern California, the imaginary figures had more than a passing likeness to characters out of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs—except that the artist placed halos around some of the heads in the manner of the Eastern Orthodox Church.

FROM TIME TO time, half-documented stories appeared in print about some of the supposed exploits of the colony of supermen. It was reported that the colony was the moving force behind the idea for the establishment of the United Nations, had a leading role in development of the Salk vaccine, developed a fool-proof method of making fire by rubbing two sticks together and did the original research that led to the development of TV dinners and no-cal pizza.

The need to know more about the elusive colony of monastic thinkers finally grew to uncontrollable proportions. The U.S. government, approached by a delegation from the American Institute for Useless Research, reluctantly agreed to provide $10 million to finance an expedition into the most remote parts of Africa.

Sen. George Murphy made the motion to provide the money by setting aside 10 per cent of the funds allocated for construction of a four-lane highway over the Andes Mountains as a farm-to-market road for the descendants of the Incas.

Capt. (ret.) Hezekiah L. Wimplespoon, the first man ever to ride the elevator from the top to the bottom of the Little Building non-stop, was named leader of the expedition with the simulated rank of admiral in the Nebraska Navy.

Some of the nation's leading thinkers volunteered immediately for service in Capt. Wimplespoon's expedition. Art Buchwald was retained as press officer. Adam Clayton Powell sent a collect cable from Bimini offering to go along if he could use his airline credit card and take two secretaries.

Wimplespoon received Pentagon permission for a guard comprised of a platoon of Green Berets, but the order was withdrawn when the Army discovered he had recruited the first 24 girls from the left in the chorus line at Radio City Music Hall and equipped them with brimless green hats to stay within the literal meaning of the order.

WINED AND DINED by learned societies across the width and breadth of the United States, the expedition finally set sail on the U.S.S. Everett McKinley Dirksen, a craft known for its melliflous foghorn.

As the craft pulled into the dock at Casablanca, it was met by a band of Arab urchins playing "Harbor Lights" on converted GI jerricans. Capt. Wimplespoon immediately dis-

Three days later, after the expedition's leader had been located and bailed out of the stockade minus all his possessions except his dentures and a fringed green silk shawl, the group of researchers set off southward across the Sahara Desert. For days they marched, always to the south. Replenishing supplies of water at an infrequent oasis, the expedition finally moved off the desert and into the grassy highlands. Then its route led into a deep jungle fastness.

"A likely spot to pitch my tent," Wimplespoon commented.

He hurled the bundle of canvas and rope into underbrush.

"I'm glad nobody mentioned sleeping bags," Buchwald said artfully. "I write strictly for family newspapers!"

"Besides, my home office didn't like that last story about the falling barometer that struck the captain on the head!"

Wimplespoon held up his hand to signal a halt.

"We just crossed the equator, or was it the Mason-Dixon line?" he whispered to a porter in a conspiratorial tone. Peering near sightedly at a map of Santa Monica and its suburb, he added:

"Funny about the Pacific Ocean being this far to the east!"

"Wait!" Wimplespoon shouted. "You're defacing my map."

"But it's a picture of my hero, Ronald Reagan," the porter replied. "I knew him when he was an honest actor, before Lassie beat him out for the Academy Award."

AS THE EXPEDITION moved forward, the density of the jungle lessened until occasional patches of sunlight filtered through to the trail. The dank odor gave way to a smell of burning wood.

Wimplespoon spotted a kangaroo in an attitude of repose near the trail.

"There are no kangaroos in Africa," the porter said belligerently. "There must be something wrong with the script!"

"Not so," Wimplespoon rejoined. "If Lewis Carroll could get away with Cheshire cats and mock turtules, our man can ring in a little thing like a kangaroo in Africa."

Leaping into the startled beast's marsupial pouch, he focused his binoculars on the middle distance.

"As we used to say on the Keith Circuit, it's only an overnight jump from here," he exclaimed.

As the expedition moved away from the forest, Wimplespoon spotted a white tile structure at a great distance. It was topped by a bright orange roof.

"Either that is the habitation of the colony we seek or I have been following that Santa Monica map again," he said.

A white-robed figure emerged from the building to meet the approaching column. The man's hands were in an attitude of prayer. A smile wreathed his face as he approached Wimplespoon.

"Welcome to Shangri-La East," he told the expedition's leader. "We know our secret would be exposed to the world's eyes one day."

"Lafayette, we are here!" Wimplespoon exclaimed. "Dr. Livington, I presume. "Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead. Don't fire till you see the whites of their eyes. One if by land, two if by sea."

"One of those phrases should go down in history. Hello; who are you?"

"This is Shangri-La East," the white-robed figure said. "We devote ourselves entirely to the service of mankind. We have served as advisers to heads of state for countless centuries. Our personnel is replaced constantly by members who drift in here from the outside world, content to work selflessly for the rest of their lives."

"Our membership is limited. We accept only the best to live this monastic life, cut off from civilization."

"There is Brother Henry, the primary planner of the Bay of Pigs expedition," Brother Dominic said. "He is one of our leaders."

"Next to Brother Aloysius," Brother Dominic continued. "He is the man who sent the dispatch from France about the end of World War I—24 hours before the Armistice."

"And there's another eminent man of letters, Brother Gasper. He was editor of the Literary Digest in 1936 when it predicted Alf Landon would defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt. He wrote most of Wendell Willkie's speeches and once coined a little slogan for Charlie Wilson: 'What's good for GM is good for the country."

You And The Law

You may have had the occasion to write a check, discover that something was wrong with the transaction and called the bank to "stop that check." In most cases, the bank requires you to file a form for their records, stopping payment of that particular check.

But does a prompt stop payment order on a check you have issued always protect you? Not necessarily, as it was ruled in one state.

In this case, a company had given a check to a men in payment for some materials. The man deposited the check in his bank. Later, the company which issued the check discovered that the materials did not belong to the man, so they stopped payment on the check.

BEFORE THE man's bank was advised of the stop payment order, the man had withdrawn about half of the amount deposited from the check. The company argued that they had stopped payment on the check and it was the bank's liability, not theirs.

The court ruled in the case, however, that the man's bank was a "holder in due course," which means it has a right to protection if the check was validly issued. The bank could recover from the company the amount withdrawn by the man before the stop payment order was received.

A stop payment order does not always protect you. The bank may pay on the check before the order clears. When you issue a stop payment order it goes to your bank. Your bank knows about it, but the bank where it was cashed may not — and you have to stand the loss.

Area Men In Vietnam Conflict

By LIDA SMITH

A LaCroft Air Force munitions specialist at an air base in the Vietnamese central highlands near the Cambodian border lives day-by-day handling explosives powerful enough to raze every building near the base.

Airman 1C Ronald Barrett, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Barrett of 8th Ave., LaCroft, is stationed at Pleiku Air Base so high in the mountains "it seems if you stood on your tip toes you could touch the clouds."

Little humidity and a continuous coolness prevails at the base from which "you can see for miles and miles," he said.

Barrett arrived in Saigon the day before his 22nd birthday and as he said, "from then on the action started."

"We were waiting on a bus in front of the terminal and heard mortar fire. Some of our planes were dropping flares to help find the Viet Cong. It turned out that they mortared the motor pool and demolished the whole thing."

"ONE VIETNAMESE civilian was killed, but that's all. The report said they lost track of a regiment of "Charlies" about five miles from the perimeter of the base."

He described life at the Tau San Nhut base as including many Vietnamese men and women who had been hired to clean the barracks and keep the base orderly.

"There are a lot of Vietnamese people around this area. Women who take care of the barracks are frequent visitors on base."

Water and food available seemed to leave something lacking so far as Barrett and the other new arrivals were concerned. "The water is a 'pretty' orangish yellow. Don't ask me how it tastes because I am too scared to try it!"

"We have to take a bus to the chow hall, so since I'm only going to be here a day or so (before shipping out to Pleiku). We eat from a trailer snack bar. All that is available are hot dogs and soft drinks."

A considerable amount of courage was needed before he became "brave" enough to use the discolored water and eat the food. One of the things he misses most is milk—and plenty of it, his mother said.

"Well, I said being in the Air Force I didn't have to worry too much, but when I think of it, those mortars can't tell the difference between the uniforms of the Army and the Air Force," he wrote.

THOUGH HE LIVED in a "tent - type wooden hut" when he first arrived, he has since moved into a form of barracks. Mildew, which attacks the personal articles of the men, plagues the daily lives at the base more constantly than the Viet Cong, he said.

In a more recent letter Barrett described the changes which were beginning to take place in the weather.

"We've had our first big rain of the season (March 1967) today about 5:00 p.m. It only rained for about an hour but it REALLY rained! There were about two inches on the flight line and a roof of one of the barracks and two doors were seriously damaged."

"One good thing — it did settle the dust. It's been awfully "muggy" here lately. Some of the men said it was the change of the seasons. They say when monsoon period is here, the sky becomes dark, the wind is cool and the lightning and thunder are plentiful."

Though Pleiku has remained safe from most Viet Cong attacks, it does not escape from the conflict completely, the lanky young soldier said "We lost another aircraft a couple of nights ago. It was shot down by ground fire, but the pilot made it out all right. Ejection seats are just being installed in the planes. Before the seats, the only way down was to jump! Not all the planes have the seats yet."

"Also yesterday evening a plane came in with a full load of napalm on. The pilot "stood on his brakes" so much they caught fire. My crew chief ran up and told the pilot about the flames and he revved up the engines and blew out the fire."

"THINGS WERE pretty exciting for awhile. If that napalm ignited, it would have been curtains for anyone within about a half mile radius—and there were a lot of people around."

In April, Barrett went to Taiwan for a rest from the tension caused by the combat raging throughout Vietnam. Before he left, he and his ammunitions loading team were awarded individual marble trophies for their competant work during a specified time.

Barrett, graduated from East Liverpool High School in 1964, has chosen to remain in Vietnam for an additional six-months, he told his family recently. He will keep in touch with his family through tape recordings and letters while he fulfills loading orders for the Skyraiders — small planes which carry bombs weighing more than the plane itself and can fly lower and more slowly than the larger planes.

Eagerly awaiting Barrett's return home in August, are his father, who is employed at the Smith and Phillips Co., and his mother, as well as three brothers, Blaine, 18, David, 11, and Jimmy, 6 and two sisters Shirley, 15 and Mrs. James (Pat) Feeley of Louisville Ky.

The Super-Thinkers

By Robert Popp

For hundreds of years the western world has buzzed with vague rumors of a colony of supermen deep in the most remote recesses of Africa that follows a monastic life and combines its intelligence and detached philosophical attitudes for the benefit of all mankind.

Like the myth of Prester John and his Kingdom, the story carried into the jet age, when the tiniest and most remote sources of the Blue and White Niles had been mapped and progress was being made even on a cure for the common cold.

The stories persisted, as elusive as the tales of the Lost Dutchman Gold Mine, the Holy Grail, the Knights of the Roundtable and the year the Washington Senators won the American League pennant.

In the deepest mountain fastness of India, an itinerant story teller would hold a crowd of illiterate villagers spellbound as he recited tales of the inhabitants.

Dozens of novels were based on the altruistic work of the legendary order. It became the subject of a radio drama in the mid-1930's, but the ultimate exposure occured in 1967 when the tales were woven into a television series to run opposite "Bonanza" on Sunday nights.

Romanticized drawings of the settlement's inhabitants sometimes accompanied magazine articles speculating on its existence. Drawn in Southern California, the imaginary figures had more than a passing likeness to characters out of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs—except that the artist placed halos around some of the heads in the manner of the Eastern Orthodox Church.

FROM TIME TO time, half-documented stories appeared in print about some of the supposed exploits of the colony of supermen. It was reported that the colony was the moving force behind the idea for the establishment of the United Nations, had a leading role in development of the Salk vaccine, developed a fool-proof method of making fire by rubbing two sticks together and did the original research that led to the development of TV dinners and no-cal pizza.

The need to know more about the elusive colony of monastic thinkers finally grew to uncontrollable proportions. The U.S. government, approached by a delegation from the American Institute for Useless Research, reluctantly agreed to provide $10 million to finance an expedition into the most remote parts of Africa.

Sen. George Murphy made the motion to provide the money by setting aside 10 per cent of the funds allocated for construction of a four-lane highway over the Andes Mountains as a farm-to-market road for the descendants of the Incas.

Capt. (ret.) Hezekiah L. Wimplespoon, the first man ever to ride the elevator from the top to the bottom of the Little Building non-stop, was named leader of the expedition with the simulated rank of admiral in the Nebraska Navy.

Some of the nation's leading thinkers volunteered immediately for service in Capt. Wimplespoon's expedition. Art Buchwald was retained as press officer. Adam Clayton Powell sent a collect cable from Bimini offering to go along if he could use his airline credit card and take two secretaries.

Wimplespoon received Pentagon permission for a guard comprised of a platoon of Green Berets, but the order was withdrawn when the Army discovered he had recruited the first 24 girls from the left in the chorus line at Radio City Music Hall and equipped them with brimless green hats to stay within the literal meaning of the order.

WINED AND DINED by learned societies across the width and breadth of the United States, the expedition finally set sail on the U.S.S. Everett McKinley Dirksen, a craft known for its melliflous foghorn.

As the craft pulled into the dock at Casablanca, it was met by a band of Arab urchins playing "Harbor Lights" on converted GI jerricans. Capt. Wimplespoon immediately dis-

Three days later, after the expedition's leader had been located and bailed out of the stockade minus all his possessions except his dentures and a fringed green silk shawl, the group of researchers set off southward across the Sahara Desert. For days they marched, always to the south. Replenishing supplies of water at an infrequent oasis, the expedition finally moved off the desert and into the grassy highlands. Then its route led into a deep jungle fastness.

"A likely spot to pitch my tent," Wimplespoon commented.

He hurled the bundle of canvas and rope into underbrush.

"I'm glad nobody mentioned sleeping bags," Buchwald said artfully. "I write strictly for family newspapers!"

"Besides, my home office didn't like that last story about the falling barometer that struck the captain on the head!"

Wimplespoon held up his hand to signal a halt.

"We just crossed the equator, or was it the Mason-Dixon line?" he whispered to a porter in a conspiratorial tone. Peering near sightedly at a map of Santa Monica and its suburb, he added:

"Funny about the Pacific Ocean being this far to the east!"

"Wait!" Wimplespoon shouted. "You're defacing my map."

"But it's a picture of my hero, Ronald Reagan," the porter replied. "I knew him when he was an honest actor, before Lassie beat him out for the Academy Award."

AS THE EXPEDITION moved forward, the density of the jungle lessened until occasional patches of sunlight filtered through to the trail. The dank odor gave way to a smell of burning wood.

Wimplespoon spotted a kangaroo in an attitude of repose near the trail.

"There are no kangaroos in Africa," the porter said belligerently. "There must be something wrong with the script!"

"Not so," Wimplespoon rejoined. "If Lewis Carroll could get away with Cheshire cats and mock turtules, our man can ring in a little thing like a kangaroo in Africa."

Leaping into the startled beast's marsupial pouch, he focused his binoculars on the middle distance.

"As we used to say on the Keith Circuit, it's only an overnight jump from here," he exclaimed.

As the expedition moved away from the forest, Wimplespoon spotted a white tile structure at a great distance. It was topped by a bright orange roof.

"Either that is the habitation of the colony we seek or I have been following that Santa Monica map again," he said.

A white-robed figure emerged from the building to meet the approaching column. The man's hands were in an attitude of prayer. A smile wreathed his face as he approached Wimplespoon.

"Welcome to Shangri-La East," he told the expedition's leader. "We know our secret would be exposed to the world's eyes one day."

"Lafayette, we are here!" Wimplespoon exclaimed. "Dr. Livington, I presume. "Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead. Don't fire till you see the whites of their eyes. One if by land, two if by sea."

"One of those phrases should go down in history. Hello; who are you?"

"This is Shangri-La East," the white-robed figure said. "We devote ourselves entirely to the service of mankind. We have served as advisers to heads of state for countless centuries. Our personnel is replaced constantly by members who drift in here from the outside world, content to work selflessly for the rest of their lives.

"Our membership is limited. We accept only the best to live this monastic life, cut off from civilization."

"That is Brother George," Brother Dominic said, pointing to the figure at the head of the column. "He designed the Edsel and helped sell stock in the Tucker Torpedo. Truly an outstanding figure in his field."

"There is Brother Henry, the primary planner of the Bay of Pigs expedition," Brother Dominic said. "He is one of our leaders."

"Next to Brother Aloysius," Brother Dominic continued. "He is the man who sent the dispatch from France about the end of World War I—24 hours before the Armistice."

"And there's another eminent man of letters, Brother Gasper. He was editor of the Literary Digest in 1936 when it predicted Alf Landon would defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt. He wrote most of Wendell Willkie's speeches and once coined a little slogan for Charlie Wilson: 'What's good for GM is good for the country."

Outdoor Notes

By HARRY STEWART
Review Staff Member

THE OUTDOOR TEMPO is gaining momentum daily. You name the activity and more and more people are doing it.

Fishing is coming into its own and should reach a peak in the next two or three weeks. Campers already have hit the trail and let the least little sunshine appear and picnickers fire up the grills.

Most of the surrounding countryside has taken on the clean, refreshing green hue that is apparent each spring when the trees begin to produce leaves. Many species of tree are starting to bloom, adding other pastel colors. This attracts the sightseers.

Birds are active, building nests, claiming their territories and causing a general commotion. Bird watchers are very busy.

Insects have put in an appearance, along with snakes, frogs, lizards and toads. The nature lover and hiker now have something to do.

LUNKER FISH are being caught. Not many—but there

never are. The hardnosed fisherman who is willing to keep at it all day is the one who is scoring.

Even on the cold, rainy days, this type of fisheman catches fish. I talked with one angler who spent the entire day in the wet.

Just this week a New Cumberland area couple landed two 5-pound bass after spending most of the day in the rain. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Neff of New Cumberland R. D. landed the two at Terry's Lake. One was 21½ inches and the other 20½ inches.

WARM WEATHER is coming back. It does every year, although we think that it will never get here and then wish that it wasn't so hot once it arrives.

I hear fishermen complain that it is too cold and wet in the spring to fish. When summer arrives, they say it is too hot.

Fish during the daylight hours, particularly in the afternoon, during the spring and then switch to night fishing in the summer. It will pay off over a period of time.

A CHESTER FISHERMAN, George Bartley of 337 Dunn St., won a prize with a 4-pound, 8-ounce rainbow trout he landed on a recent fishing trip to Bull Shoals Lake in Arkansas. Bull Shoals is in the same area as the famed White River of that state.

The 22-inch rainbow had a 13-inch girth. This was the largest trout taken this year and reported at the boat dock Bartley and other members of the party were using. He was accompanied by Chuck Fowler, Luke Cadman and Don Murray of East Liverpool.

Luke netted the fish for George, who will receive a trophy for the catch. He was using a small Castmaster lure.

George says they caught several bass on the trip, but nothing of notable size. They brought back some 50 pounds of fillets.

They would catch about 20 fish a day, mostly smallmouth bass. The largemouth bass had not started hitting.

WALLEYES HAVE STARTED biting in area lakes. The past weekend saw activity step up considerably.

Pete Savu of the Mecca Sport Shop on Route 46 near Mecca at Mosquito Lake wrote me Tuesday. He says the walleyes started Sunday and also pointed out the big crappies are moving into the shallows.

Some crappies are running up to 14 inches. The walleyes are just small ones so far although one 4 pounder and a 7½ pounder were caught.

The report from Clendening Lake shows two more large bass caught the past weekend. One weighed 7½ pounds, the other 5 even.

Several in the 3 to 4-pound size were reported. Crappies also are hitting in Clendening, along with the muskies.

AT PYMATUNING LAKE, the story is the same. The past weekend saw fishermen starting to fill their creels. The walleyes started biting there a week ago, according to Ed Orr of Glenmoor who is spending a month camping on the lake.

He says several large ones were caught. He landed eight from Friday to Sunday, but all were in the 15 to 19-inch class.

The walleyes are hitting a worm harness. Ed says the weather has been very cold and ice formed on the minnow bucket overnight the first few days.

Earl Tucker of Glenmoor had quite a hassle with a large carp this week. Fishing in Beaver Creek, he hooked into the big one on spinning gear, and took at least 30 minutes to land it. A fishing companion had to get behind the carp with a net to get it up on shore.

If you want some sport, use light spinning tackle to catch carp. They can put up quite a battle.

THE DANGEROUS practice of target shooting or plinking with rifles along a frequently used section of Beaver Creek has been reported.

The shooting has been going on at Sprucevale, a section purchased recently by the state. Ralph Drake, Columbiana County game protector, says he has had several complaints from fishermen, sightseers and picnickers about the use of firearms in the area commonly known as the "Two Bit Hole."

As this is now a part of the state's park system, it is illegal to use rifles, even for target shooting, in the area.

Aside from this, it is a dangerous practice as a stray bullet could wound or kill someone using the park for another purpose.

Ralph says if the practice is not halted, anyone caught will be prosecuted.

PENNSYLVANIA'S WARM WATER fishing opened today. Trout season has been in for a few weeks but walleye, pickerel, muskellunge and northern pike became legal this morning.

The minimum size on muskie in Pennsylvania is 30 inches, and 24 inches on pike. It is 15 inches on pickerel or walleye.

The creel limit is two each of muskie or pike and six each of the other species.

Through heavy stocking, Pennsylvania is attempting to improve its muskie fishing.

Catching these fresh water "tigers" is rapidly winning popularity among anglers in the commonwealth. Young muskies were introduced into 14 new waters last year. The stocking has been carried out in 35 counties.

OHIO FISHERY men had good success in obtaining walleye and muskie eggs this year. Some two quarts of muskie eggs were stripped from fish caught at Leesville. The hatchery at Akron is in full swing and this should be a good year. Some of the muskie fry will be put in the new Highlandtown Lake.

THE PROSPECTS for fishermen in West Virginia the next few days should be very good, according to field reports.

The best fishing is expected in the Eastern Panhandle and the Williams and Cranberry Rivers. All streams in the eastern section are clear and the trout are taking both bait and artificial lures.

A NEW FISH has been introduced into Ohio—the famed striped bass.

They were put into the West Branch Reservoir a week ago.

The 75,000 striped bass fry were flown from South Carolina to the Akron-Canton Airport.

Ohio Division of Wildlife personnel then transported them to West Branch. This is an experimental release, and only time will tell just how successful the first stocking effort will be.

The striped bass or "rock fish" as it is sometimes called, is a salt water fish that has been successfully introduced in many freshwater reservoirs in the south.

West branch was selected in Ohio because of its natural features and because it is new. On the basis of past experience, fish fry stocked in new impoundments have a greater survival rate and faster growth rate than fry stocked in older lakes.

Striped bass were first found in some large dam impoundments where they were trapped after making a spawning run from the ocean. They survived, reproduced and as a result have provided some fantastic fishing in some southern lakes.

Their growth rate sometimes exceeds five pounds within three years. They grow very large and are ferocious fighters. If the striper survive, they may be future rivals of the muskie in the state.

Ohio may some day have striped bass such as the one held by this game official.

Requiem For Hamster

By HARRY STEWART

In the months past the noise of the busy exercise wheel in the cage was very annoying. Now there is a void in the natural sounds of the home. There have been other pets, there probably will be others, but there was only one Charlie.

Charlie was immortalized in word and picture in a recent feature story in the Review. Hardly a week went by after publication of the story that members of the family were not questioned about the hamster.

Like any pet, whether dog, cat or what have you, Charlie had endeared himself to the Stewarts — and many others.

This, coupled with the notoriety brought by the story seemed to make us more and more aware daily that Charlie was something special.

BUT, CHARLIE became something of a "ham," demanding, and receiving, more and more attention.

Charlie became very tame and could be easily handled out of his cage. He enjoyed being let out in the evening to run around the room, climb over the chairs or up the front of one's clothing to perch on a shoulder.

When he was not taken out, Charlie would attempt all kinds of tricks to attract attention. He would rattle the cage door, crawl up the side, sit up and beg and do other acrobatics.

One of his latest feats was to crawl to the top of the cage, hang by his front paws and "hand walk" along the bars. Then he would reach over and using his hind feet, or sometimes one front one, he would spin his exercise wheel.

THIS ALWAYS attracted the attention of the children or my wife. Charlie quickly learned this would bring us, then he would sit up to beg for some treat.

Charlie was in his usual comical form Wednesday night. The wheel squeaked all through the night and I thought to myself when awakened by the noise that it would be nice to have some quiet. I made a mental note to grease the wheel the next day.

As Charlie would sleep most of the day, no one went near the cage until Thursday evening. Charlie had been romping around, but suddenly became very quiet.

He was found on the bottom of the cage on the outside of the exercise wheel. The position of his neck indicated what had happened — the wheel caught him as he was trying to tell us it was time to play.

Now there will be no more litter of seeds flipped from the cage. No more shredded paper. No more annoying squeaks while watching television, attempting to read or trying to sleep. No more worry about someone stepping on him when he was loose.

But you know, we wish there were.

Psalm 23:1. — "The Lord is My Shepherd I shall not want."

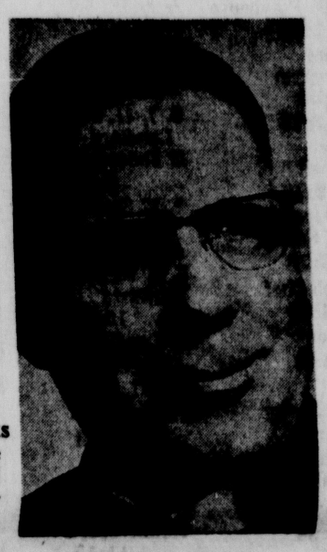

Perhaps there is no more familiar passage of Scripture that comes to the mind of man than the Twenty-Third Psalm. The reason for this is obvious in the Psalm itself. The faithful lay claim to the loving kindness and tender mercy of God. The Lord is My Shepherd; It is My Soul that is restored again by a merciful God.

In this Psalm God speaks directly to man through the familir Palestinian Pastoral scene of a Shepherd caring for His sheep. God is concerned with man, even sinful man, and the nearness of God is brought closer through this pictorial setting.

The Psalm gives courage to man. Be not afraid to live, be not afraid to die. David cries, "Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear not evil: for thou art with me."

What the Psalmist is simply saying is that if the Lord is your Shepherd and you are His sheep, you will not want for courage even if you are called to go through the most difficult places in life or death itself.

WHEN WE think of a Valley, we think of green grass, refreshment. This Valley is not like this. This is the Valley of the Shadow of Death. The Valley of deep darkness.

REV. E. J. PHINN

It is a Palestinian chasm among the hills, a deep ravine with steep sides and rocky path. Into one of these deep paths the Great Shepherd leads us. We go through it because we trust in the Good Shepherd who guides His Sheep.

What is true of the Good Shepherd is actual true of the Jesus the Christ, the Good Shepherd who leads those who trust him through the darkness, the dark valley into the green pastures with rivers of water.

We are refreshed when we arrive at the place God has willed. Jesus is still the seeking Shepherd anxious to seek and save the lost. If man will but trust in the wisdom of an all - wise and personal God, and commend himself to that God, no harm shall befall him.

What is David's conclusion of the philosophy of a personal leading Shepherd? "I will dwell in the House of the Lord the remainder of my days."

"I will not forget God; because all through my life God has not forgotten me. Even when I sinned (David did sin, and fall from Grace) yet, God reached down to lift me up. He has set my feet upon a Rock, a sure foundation," and as he says in another Psalm, "because of this I shall not be moved."

HOW DO we know God is there? Because He is leading us, and if we but trust in His guidance we shall arrive at the safe place.

Courage in life does not come from evading evil but in overcoming evil, even as Jesus overcame the Personification of God Himself.

Courage, Brother do not stumble;
Though the Way be dark as Night,
There's a star to guide the humble
Trust in God and do the right.

"Put your hand into the hand of God
Go out into the darkness
For it shall be to you, better than the known way."

Hints For Home

Larger Beds

As people grow taller, their beds are made larger. Beds are not only longer and wider but round beds are available, too. The market also offers king - size beds, queen-size beds and dual - twin beds in addition to the standard twin and double beds.

It's wise to check the cost of bedding before you buy a large bed, advises Mrs. Ruth F. Funk, Beaver County Extension Home Economist. Usually oversize items are priced about one - third higher than standard size bedding.

You will need to know the thickness of a mattress when you buy sheets and this is especially important when buying contour sheets. Bedmaking is easy if you select contour sheets with stretch at the corners.

Contour sheets do not usually wear as long as flat sheets because there is no variation in length and most of wear comes on the same part of the sheet. The tight fit over the mattress also tends to weaken the fabric.

Larger beds require larger bedding, so, before you buy a new bed, you will be wise to consider more than its shape.

Ornamental Plants

Homeowners are usually confronted with the problems each year of selecting types of plants that will best fit their property. Confusion often results when an individual hastily checks magazines, catalogs, newspaper articles or other items that briefly describe some plants.

The best thing for a homeowner to do is to go directly to his reputable, local nurseryman to obtain first hand information on plants that are available to him. In this way homeowners are able to see for themselves or obtain from nurserymen information on flower color, plant form, mature size, bark color and other points that help them decide which plants fit into their particular landscape design.

Remember that some inexpensive evergreens may grow too tall very rapidly within a brief period of time. When this happens, such plants become a liability to the home and add nothing to its appearance.

In the long run, it is always best to have the advice of an experienced nurseryman when selecting and placing ornamental plants.

See your county agent for publications which may be available about ornamental plant materials adaptable to Pennsylvania's climate and soils.

Outdoor Notes

By HARRY STEWART
Review Staff Member

THE OUTDOOR TEMPO is gaining momentum daily. You name the activity and more and more people are doing it.

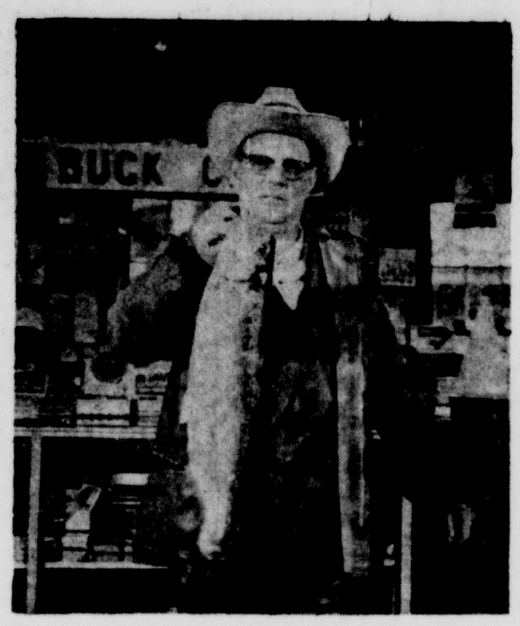

Fishing is coming into its own and should reach a peak in the next two or three weeks. Campers already have hit the trail and let the least little sunshine appear and picnickers fire up the grills.

Most of the surrounding countryside has taken on the clean, refreshing green hue that is apparent each spring when the trees begin to produce leaves. Many species of tree are starting to bloom, adding other pastel colors. This attracts the sightseers.

Birds are active, building nests, claiming their territories and causing a general commotion. Bird watchers are very busy.

Insects have put in an appearance, along with snakes, frogs, lizards and toads. The nature lover and hiker now have something to do.

LUNKER FISH are being caught. Not many—but there

never are. The hardnosed fisherman who is willing to keep at it all day is the one who is scoring.

Even on the cold, rainy days, this type of fisheman catches fish. I talked with one angler who spent the entire day in the wet.

Just this week a New Cumberland area couple landed two 5-pound bass after spending most of the day in the rain. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Neff of New Cumberland R. D. landed the two at Terry's Lake. One was 21½ inches and the other 20½ inches.

WARM WEATHER is coming back. It does every year, although we think that it will never get here and then wish that it wasn't so hot once it arrives.

I hear fishermen complain that it is too cold and wet in the spring to fish. When summer arrives, they say it is too hot.

Fish during the daylight hours, particularly in the afternoon, during the spring and then switch to night fishing in the summer. It will pay off over a period of time.

A CHESTER FISHERMAN, George Bartley of 337 Dunn St., won a prize with a 4-pound, 8-ounce rainbow trout he landed on a recent fishing trip to Bull Shoals Lake in Arkansas. Bull Shoals is in the same area as the famed White River of that state.

The 22-inch rainbow had a 13-inch girth. This was the largest trout taken this year and reported at the boat dock Bartley and other members of the party were using. He was accompanied by Chuck Fowler, Luke Cadman and Don Murray of East Liverpool.

Luke netted the fish for George, who will receive a trophy for the catch. He was using a small Castmaster lure.

George says they caught several bass on the trip, but nothing of notable size. They brought back some 50 pounds of fillets.

They would catch about 20 fish a day, mostly smallmouth bass. The largemouth bass had not started hitting.

WALLEYES HAVE STARTED biting in area lakes. The past weekend saw activity step up considerably.

Pete Savu of the Mecca Sport Shop on Route 46 near Mecca at Mosquito Lake wrote me Tuesday. He says the walleyes started Sunday and also pointed out the big crappies are moving into the shallows.

Some crappies are running up to 14 inches. The walleyes are just small ones so far although one 4 pounder and a 7½ pounder were caught.

The report from Clendening Lake shows two more large bass caught the past weekend. One weighed 7½ pounds, the other 5 even.

Several in the 3 to 4-pound size were reported. Crappies also are hitting in Clendening, along with the muskies.

AT PYMATUNING LAKE, the story is the same. The past weekend saw fishermen starting to fill their creels. The walleyes started biting there a week ago, according to Ed Orr of Glenmoor who is spending a month camping on the lake.

He says several large ones were caught. He landed eight from Friday to Sunday, but all were in the 15 to 19-inch class.

The walleyes are hitting a worm harness. Ed says the weather has been very cold and ice formed on the minnow bucket overnight the first few days.

Earl Tucker of Glenmoor had quite a hassle with a large carp this week. Fishing in Beaver Creek, he hooked into the big one on spinning gear, and took at least 30 minutes to land it. A fishing companion had to get behind the carp with a net to get it up on shore.

If you want some sport, use light spinning tackle to catch carp. They can put up quite a battle.

THE DANGEROUS practice of target shooting or plinking with rifles along a frequently used section of Beaver Creek has been reported.

The shooting has been going on at Sprucevale, a section purchased recently by the state. Ralph Drake, Columbiana County game protector, says he has had several complaints from fishermen, sightseers and picnickers about the use of firearms in the area commonly known as the "Two Bit Hole."

As this is now a part of the state's park system, it is illegal to use rifles, even for target shooting, in the area.

Aside from this, it is a dangerous practice as a stray bullet could wound or kill someone using the park for another purpose.

Ralph says if the practice is not halted, anyone caught will be prosecuted.

PENNSYLVANIA'S WARM WATER fishing opened today. Trout season has been in for a few weeks but walleye, pickerel, muskellunge and northern pike became legal this morning.

The minimum size on muskie in Pennsylvania is 30 inches, and 24 inches on pike. It is 15 inches on pickerel or walleye.

The creel limit is two each of muskie or pike and six each of the other species.

Through heavy stocking, Pennsylvania is attempting to improve its muskie fishing.

Catching these fresh water "tigers" is rapidly winning popularity among anglers in the commonwealth. Young muskies were introduced into 14 new waters last year. The stocking has been carried out in 35 counties.

OHIO FISHERY men had good success in obtaining walleye and muskie eggs this year. Some two quarts of muskie eggs were stripped from fish caught at Leesville. The hatchery at Akron is in full swing and this should be a good year. Some of the muskie fry will be put in the new Highlandtown Lake.

THE PROSPECTS for fishermen in West Virginia the next few days should be very good, according to field reports.

The best fishing is expected in the Eastern Panhandle and the Williams and Cranberry Rivers. All streams in the eastern section are clear and the trout are taking both bait and artificial lures.

A NEW FISH has been introduced into Ohio—the famed striped bass.

They were put into the West Branch Reservoir a week ago.

The 75,000 striped bass fry were flown from South Carolina to the Akron-Canton Airport.

Ohio Division of Wildlife personnel then transported them to West Branch. This is an experimental release, and only time will tell just how successful the first stocking effort will be.

The striped bass or "rock fish" as it is sometimes called, is a salt water fish that has been successfully introduced in many freshwater reservoirs in the south.

West branch was selected in Ohio because of its natural features and because it is new. On the basis of past experience, fish fry stocked in new impoundments have a greater survival rate and faster growth rate than fry stocked in older lakes.

Striped bass were first found in some large dam impoundments where they were trapped after making a spawning run from the ocean. They survived, reproduced and as a result have provided some fantastic fishing in some southern lakes.

Their growth rate sometimes exceeds five pounds within three years. They grow very large and are ferocious fighters. If the striper survive, they may be future rivals of the muskie in the state.

Ohio may some day have striped bass such as the one held by this game official.

Requiem For Hamster

By HARRY STEWART

The squeaking wheel has been stilled by death. Charlie is dead.

In the months past the noise of the busy exercise wheel in the cage was very annoying. Now there is a void in the natural sounds of the home. There have been other pets, there probably will be others, but there was only one Charlie.

Charlie was immortalized in word and picture in a recent feature story in the Review. Hardly a week went by after publication of the story that members of the family were not questioned about the hamster.

Like any pet, whether dog, cat or what have you, Charlie had endeared himself to the Stewarts — and many others.

This, coupled with the notoriety brought by the story seemed to make us more and more aware daily that Charlie was something special.

BUT, CHARLIE became something of a "ham," demanding, and receiving, more and more attention.

Charlie became very tame and could be easily handled out of his cage. He enjoyed being let out in the evening to run around the room, climb over the chairs or up the front of one's clothing to perch on a shoulder.

When he was not taken out, Charlie would attempt all kinds of tricks to attract attention. He would rattle the cage door, crawl up the side, sit up and beg and do other acrobatics.

One of his latest feats was to crawl to the top of the cage, hang by his front paws and "hand walk" along the bars. Then he would reach over and using his hind feet, or sometimes one front one, he would spin his exercise wheel.

Court Suspends Driver's Permit

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff Thursday decreed a six-month suspension in the driver's license of a 30-year-old East Liverpool man after finding him to be an "habitual traffic offender" within the meaning of Ohio's 12-point "demerit system" for motorists.

The suspension was ordered for Raymond Albert Kinne of 818 Lincoln Ave. on a case certified to the local court by Fred Rice, registrar of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles in Columbus.

Rice alleged Kinne had accumulated 12 "points" in the driver rating system — six on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident Oct. 10, 1966, and six more on a drunken driving charge last March 29. Both cases were heard in the local court, the record showed.

The suspension was ordered in a hearing at which Kinne was ordered to appear and "show cause why his driver's license should not be suspended."

Salem Ends East Palestine's Hold On County Track Title

Wellsville Finishes 3rd; Reed Wins Two Events

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Salem High School ended East Palestine's two - year hold on the Columbiana County Track and Field championship by piling up 84 points to easily capture the 64th running of the event Friday night at Salem's Reilly Stadium.

Some 500 fans saw the Quakers outdistance eight other schools. East Palestine finished second with 52 points and Wellsville third with 45.

AFTER the top three schools, the remainder of the field was far behind, with Beaver Local fourth with 17, Leetonia 14, United 12 and Columbiana and Crestview 8 each. The ninth team, Southern Local, failed to score.

Lisbon did not enter a team and East Liverpool did not have a spring sports program this year.

The 45 points scored by Wellsville marked the highest total recorded by the Tigers since Coach Ken Woods has been at the helm. Wellsville was sparked by a double victory from the flying feet of Bill Reed, who came home first in the mile and half - mile events, and the mile relay team which captured its second relay in two years with the same four runners.

REED easily won the mile in 4:44.9, almost 13 seconds off the county record. In the half - mile, the little distance man ran away from East Palestine's Bob Hartford in the last 220 yards and posted a 2:04.2 clocking.

The Tigers' mile relay team of Bob Morehead, Ken Rosenbaum, Todd Weekley and Jack Young turned in a 3:37.7 time after winning the event last year at East Palestine in 3:38.8. The county record is 3:36.7.

A FINE third leg by Weekley gave the Tigers a safe lead as Young "kicked out" the final quarter - mile, but missed by one second of equalling the meet record.

Terry Sheets paced Salem's victory and emerged as the meet's most valuable performer and high point man. He won the 100 in 10.6, the 220 in 23.5 and the 440 in 53.3.

ANOTHER double winner for Coach Carl Zellers team was George Zeller, who took both hurdle events, covering the 120-yard highs in 15.4 and the lows in 20.6.

THE ONLY record of the day came in the shot put when East Palestine's Jim Parker put the iron ball 53 feet, 1 inch, breaking the old mark of Tony Conkle, another East Palestine great. Conkle had set the previous record of 52 feet, 9 inches in 1953. Parker also won the discus at 140 feet, 8 inches.

Salem also won the half-mile relay in 1:36.4, with Wellsville finishing second.

THE TIGERS were nosed out in two other events as Salem's Tom Hicks nipped Wellsville's Ken Kornbau in a rough finish of the two - mile run. Referee Sim Earich did not call a foul as the runners fought to the finish, with Hicks gaining the edge in the last two strides. Wellsville's Paul Hood took third in the two - mile run.

Weekley also was edged at the finish by Sheets in the finish of the 220-yard dash.

The pole vault went to Jim Taucher of East Palestine at 12 feet even. Taucher tried for the record of 12 feet, 6 inches, but failed in three attempts.

The high jump was won by Unger of Crestview at 5 feet, 8 inches.

Wellsville's Sedor Fractures Collarbone

Wellsville hurdler Dan Sedor suffered a broken collarbone as a result of a fall as he finished the 120-yard high hurdles in Friday night's County Track Meet at Salem. Sedor fell at the finish and a doctor at the scene said he had fractured the left collarbone.

RECEIVING MEDALS and a smile is Wellsville's Bill Reed, who is being presented his awards by Miss Debbie Zellers, a Salem High sophomore, after he had won both the mile and half-mile events at Salem Friday night in the County Meet.

'Shoe', Damascus Team In Derby

Field Of 14 In Run For Roses Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The eyes of the world were focused on Churchill Downs today for the 93rd Kentucky Derby, but the racing classic perhaps meant the most to the 14 little men who rode the big horses.

For six, it was their first ride in the 1¼-mile race that is a mecca for horsemen and stirs more interest, per second of action, on the sidewalks and curbstones than any other sports event.

Four other riders were seeking records of one kind or another, one was looking for his second Derby victory and three were hoping for the fame that comes with even one triumph in America's greatest horse race.

The dean of the riders, Bill Shoemaker, was making his 16th consecutive Derby start astride the favored Damascus. Shoemaker has won the Derby three times and, because of hard luck, has brushed upon victory without tasting it two other times.

Except for the 1957 Derby, when Shoemaker misjudged the finish line aboard Gallant Man, and 1964, when he gave up a ride on Northern Dancer to take Hill Rise in the classic, Shoemaker could now be trying to become the Derby's winningest jockey.

Hartack, aboard Dr. Isby, was trying to tie Eddie Arcaro for having the most victorious Derby rides—five. But it took Arcaro 21 tries to achieve his record and Hartack was riding in only his eighth Derby.

Only two riders have had successive Derby wins. Isaac Murphy did it in 1890-91 and Jimmy Winkfield turned the trick in 1901-02.

John Sellers, riding Diplomat Way, was seeking the riders' dream weekend. He won Churchill Downs' featured Kentucky Oaks aboard Nancy Jr. on Friday and could have winnings of $158,950 for a weekend.

Braulio Baeza, astride Successor, was a winner with Chateaugay in one of his four Derby trips. A third generation rider from Panama, he has ridden Successor in all but two of his dozen races.

Earlie Fires, the nation's leading apprentice two years ago, was making his second Derby appearance aboard Dawn Glory, an outsider grouped in the mutuel field.

It was the fifth Derby for Bobby Ussery and the third for Bill Phelps, neither of whom have visited the winner's circle. Ussery was on Proud Clarion this time and Phelps was aboard Second Encounter.

Hedging Of Bets On Derby Brings Gambling Raids

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two men were arrested in their Pittsburgh-area homes Friday as part of a synchronized gambling raid in eight cities by the Internal Revenue Service.

Agents in Washington announced six men were arrested and $46,237 was seized after the service received reports that book-makers in Las Vegas were hedging bets for the Kentucky Derby by placing bets with bookies in other cities.

Arrested in the Pittsburgh area were Augustine Ferrone of East McKeesport and William Mendicino, 52, of Butler. They were charged with failing to purchase federal tax stamps.

Others were arrested in the Chicago and Baltimore areas.

Other raids were in Canton and Youngstown, Ohio, Las Vegas, Silver Spring, Md., and Lexington, Ky., site of the Kentucky Derby.

In a hedging operation, when a book-maker gets so many bets on one horse that he stands to lose money if the horse wins, he places bets on the same horse with other bookies in order to cover any prospective losses.

Arnie Fires 66 For 3-Shot Lead

By RONALD THOMPSON
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Arnold Palmer, golf's all-time money maker, isn't winning as much as he'd like to this year. Yet in seven of the 12 pro tournaments he has finished fourth or better, pocketing $73,273.

He locked onto the lead in the rich, $115,000 Champions International Friday, sizzling to a five-under 66 for a 134 total and a three-stroke lead. His nearest contender was young Frank Beard, alone in second place at 137.

"Palmer's off to his best start of any year," a PGA official said, noting that he had finished in the money in every tournament on the 1967 tour.

The ledger showed that Palmer had played 33 oficial rounds of golf this year. On 22 of those he posted rounds in the 60s, hardly surprising for the mighty Arnie, who has won $827,723, more than any other golfer, in 13 years as a professional.

Palmer has won the Los Angeles and Tucson opens this year. In addition, he has recorded one second, two ties for second, two thirds and a fourth.

"I'm not winning as much as I'd like to be. I've already lost one tournament I wanted to win . . . that's the masters," said Arnold.

Palmer thrust himself into the limelight in the star - studded Houston field by mouting one of his typical birdie charges, using deft iron play for birdies on five of the last seven holes.

My irons were pretty good," said Palmer. "They're the outstanding part of my game, if there's any outstanding part.

Jack Nicklaus, who is having a bad year on the tour, suffered a frustrating two - stroke penalty along with PGA champ Al Geiberger and former U.S. open winner Cary Middlecoff for slow play.

The penalty, invoked by PGA tournament director Jack Tuthill, took the edge off a 69 Nicklaus shot to recoup from a disastrous 77 on the first day. As a result, Nicklaus' 146 barely made the 150 cut.

Geiberger had a 145, and Middlecoff a 149.

World Record Next Step For Villanova Runners

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — Jumbo Jim Elliott, his Villanova Wildcats having already bagged the two biggest distance events in the 11th annual Quantico Relays, went looking today for a world record — next week.

Today's goal for sophomore star Richmond Flowers of Tennessee, a surprise added starter, was much simpler — revenge for last week's defeat in the 120 high hurdles in the Penn Relays.

Elliott, who feels distance ace Dave Patrick needs to sharpen up his dash work, planned to use his star only in the mile relay in preparation for the Wildcat's invasion of the West Coast next week in quest of a world record in the distance medley relay.

The Wildcats swept to victory Friday in the distance medley and four-mile relays, setting meet records in both. Patrick ran only the anchor leg on the four-mile team, which finished 175 yards in front in 16:51. Charlie Messenger anchored the distance medley quartet to a 9:47.6 clocking.

Patrick was caught in 4:10.2 for his mile with Frank Murphy running the fastest leg — 4:09.4. Messenger ran a 4:06.1 mile in the distance medley to hold off Fordham's Jack Fath, who was timed in 4:04.8.

Three other records were set on opening day, two by the girls.

American record-holder Charlotte Cook of Washington, D.C., ran the 880 in the trials in 2:08.7, while Tennessee State's 440 relay team — Diana Wilson, Mattilene Render, Muarcella Daniel and Madeline Manning — was clocked in 46.7 seconds, also in the trials.

The open 880-yard run was won in record time by Benedict Cayenne of Maryland State, who did 1:50.7 in the finals after earlier lowering the record to 1:52.1 in the trials.

Flowers had the fastest time in the high hurdles trials, 14 seconds, and also made it to the semifinals in the 100-yard dash with a 9.8 clocking. Two-time defending champion Ed Roberts of the Baltimore Olympic Club also was caught in 9.8.

Baldwin Wallace led the 440-yard relay qualifiers in 42.1 and defending champion Kentucky State the 880 relay trials in 1:26.8.

Camping Group Plans For Outing

The initial camping trip May 12-14 at Krebis Trailer Park, near Guilford, was discussed when the Tri-State Campers Association met Thursday night at the Wellsville Boat Club.

Historical spots and covered bridges will be toured May 13 and the group will attend church May 14. Earl Hartford, wagonmaster, presided and opened the meeting with prayer and the pledge of allegiance. Mrs. Ella Saltsman of East Liverpool served as secretary pro-tem and Mrs. Dora DuMoulin as treasurer pro-tem.

Emblem patches were selected. Bonnie and Earl Chapman of East Liverpool were received as new members. Emmett Ketchum screened slides of the Seattle, Wash. exposition.

The meeting was closed with prayer. Lunch was served 45 by Russell Howell and Weekley. An old-fashioned wiener roast, with music to be furnished by Howell, will be held June 1 at the clubhouse.

Wellsville Finishes 3rd; Reed Wins Two Events

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Salem High School ended East Palestine's two - year hold on the Columbiana County Track and Field championship by piling up 84 points to easily capture the 64th running of the event Friday night at Salem's Reilly Stadium.

Some 500 fans saw the Quakers outdistance eight other schools. East Palestine finished second with 52 points and Wellsville third with 45.

AFTER the top three schools, the remainder of the field was far behind, with Beaver Local fourth with 17, Leetonia 14, United 12 and Columbiana and Crestview 8 each. The ninth team, Southern Local, failed to score.

Lisbon did not enter a team and East Liverpool did not have a spring sports program this year.

Only one record fell, a new shot put mark being established.

The 45 points scored by Wellsville marked the highest total recorded by the Tigers since Coach Ken Woods has been at the helm. Wellsville was sparked by a double victory from the flying feet of Bill Reed, who came home first in the mile and half - mile events, and the mile relay team which captured its second relay in two years with the same four runners.

REED easily won the mile in 4:44.9, almost 13 seconds off the county record. In the half - mile, the little distance man ran away from East Palestine's Bob Hartford in the last 220 yards and posted a 2:04.2 clocking.

The Tigers' mile relay team of Bob Morehead, Ken Rosenbaum, Todd Weekley and Jack Young turned in a 3:37.7 time after winning the event last year at East Palestine in 3:38.8. The county record is 3:36.7.

A FINE third leg by Weekley gave the Tigers a safe lead as Young "kicked out" the final quarter - mile, but missed by one second of equalling the meet record.

Young also took second in the 100-yard dash and fourth in the 440.

Terry Sheets paced Salem's victory and emerged as the meet's most valuable performer and high point man. He won the 100 in 10.6, the 220 in 23.5 and the 440 in 53.3.

ANOTHER double winner for Coach Carl Zellers team was George Zeller, who took both hurdle events, covering the 120-yard highs in 15.4 and the lows in 20.6.

Beaver Local's only first place finish was turned in by senior Steve Harrold, who won the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet, 4½ inches.

The Beavers' leading scorer though was Jim Nuzum, who was second in the 440-yard dash, third in the 220 and fifth in the 100-yard dash.

THE ONLY record of the day came in the shot put when East Palestine's Jim Parker put the iron ball 53 feet, 1 inch, breaking the old mark of Tony Conkle, another East Palestine great. Conkle had set the previous record of 52 feet, 9 inches in 1953. Parker also won the discus at 140 feet, 8 inches.

Salem also won the half-mile relay in 1:36.4, with Wellsville finishing second.

—:—

THE TIGERS were nosed out in two other events as Salem's Tom Hicks nipped Wellsville's Ken Kornbau in a rough finish of the two - mile run. Referee Sim Earich did not call a foul as the runners fought to the finish, with Hicks gaining the edge in the last two strides. Wellsville's Paul Hood took third in the two - mile run.

Weekley also was edged at the finish by Sheets in the finish of the 220-yard dash.

The pole vault went to Jim Taucher of East Palestine at 12 feet even. Taucher tried for the record of 12 feet, 6 inches, but failed in three attempts.

The high jump was won by Unger of Crestview at 5 feet, 8 inches.

Wellsville's Sedor Fractures Collarbone

Wellsville hurdler Dan Sedor suffered a broken collarbone as a result of a fall as he finished the 120-yard high hurdles in Friday night's County Track Meet at Salem. Sedor fell at the finish and a doctor at the scene said he had fractured the left collarbone.

RECEIVING MEDALS and a smile is Wellsville's Bill Reed, who is being presented his awards by Miss Debbie Zellers, a Salem High sophomore, after he had won both the mile and half-mile events at Salem Friday night in the County Meet.

'Shoe', Damascus Team In Derby

Field Of 14 In Run For Roses Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The eyes of the world were focused on Churchill Downs today for the 93rd Kentucky Derby, but the racing classic perhaps meant the most to the 14 little men who rode the big horses.

For six, it was their first ride in the 1¼-mile race that is a mecca for horsemen and stirs more interest, per second of action, on the sidewalks and curbstones than any other sports event.

Four other riders were seeking records of one kind or another, one was looking for his second Derby victory and three were hoping for the fame that comes with even one triumph in America's greatest horse race.

The dean of the riders, Bill Shoemaker, was making his 16th consecutive Derby start astride the favored Damascus. Shoemaker has won the Derby three times and, because of hard luck, has brushed upon victory without tasting it two other times.

Shoemaker, is trying for victory No. 4, sought to tie Bill Hartack for second place among Derby riders.

Except for the 1957 Derby, when Shoemaker misjudged the finish line aboard Gallant Man, and 1964, when he gave up a ride on Northern Dancer to take Hill Rise in the classic, Shoemaker could now be trying to become the Derby's winningest jockey.

Hartack, aboard Dr. Isby, was trying to tie Eddie Arcaro for having the most victorious Derby rides—five. But it took Arcaro 21 tries to achieve his record and Hartack was riding in only his eighth Derby.

Don Brumfield, riding Lightning Orphan, was trying to become the first jockey since the start of this century to ride two Derby winners in a row.

Only two riders have had successive Derby wins. Isaac Murphy did it in 1890-91 and Jimmy Winkfield turned the trick in 1901-02.

Brumfield, who rode Kauai King to victory last year, also was trying to keep his Derby record spotless. His first ride brought his first win.

John Sellers, riding Diplomat Way, was seeking the riders' dream weekend. He won Churchill Downs' featured Kentucky Oaks aboard Nancy Jr. on Friday and could have winnings of $158,950 for a weekend.

Braulio Baeza, astride Successor, was a winner with Chateaugay in one of his four Derby trips. A third generation rider from Panama, he has ridden Successor in all but two of his dozen races.

Earlie Fires, the nation's leading apprentice two years ago, was making his second Derby appearance aboard Dawn Glory, an outsider grouped in the mutuel field.

Fires, however, is no stranger to longshots. Last year, he brought another field horse, Blue Skyer, in third.

It was the fifth Derby for Bobby Ussery and the third for Bill Phelps, neither of whom have visited the winner's circle. Ussery was on Proud Clarion this time and Phelps was aboard Second Encounter.

Hedging Of Bets On Derby Brings Gambling Raids

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two men were arrested in their Pittsburgh-area homes Friday as part of a synchronized gambling raid in eight cities by the Internal Revenue Service.

Agents in Washington announced six men were arrested and $46,237 was seized after the service received reports that book-makers in Las Vegas were hedging bets for the Kentucky Derby by placing bets with bookies in other cities.

Arrested in the Pittsburgh area were Augustine Ferrone of East McKeesport and William Mendicino, 52, of Butler. They were charged with failing to purchase federal tax stamps.

Others were arrested in the Chicago and Baltimore areas.

Other raids were in Canton and Youngstown, Ohio, Las Vegas, Silver Spring, Md., and Lexington, Ky., site of the Kentucky Derby.

In a hedging operation, when a book-maker gets so many bets on one horse that he stands to lose money if the horse wins, he places bets on the same horse with other bookies in order to cover any prospective losses.

Arnie Fires 66 For 3-Shot Lead

By RONALD THOMPSON
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Arnold Palmer, golf's all-time money maker, isn't winning as much as he'd like to this year. Yet in seven of the 12 pro tournaments he has finished fourth or better, pocketing $73,273.

He locked onto the lead in the rich, $115,000 Champions International Friday, sizzling to a five-under 66 for a 134 total and a three-stroke lead. His nearest contender was young Frank Beard, alone in second place at 137.

"Palmer's off to his best start of any year," a PGA official said, noting that he had finished in the money in every tournament on the 1967 tour.

The ledger showed that Palmer had played 33 oficial rounds of golf this year. On 22 of those he posted rounds in the 60s, hardly surprising for the mighty Arnie, who has won $827,723, more than any other golfer, in 13 years as a professional.

Palmer has won the Los Angeles and Tucson opens this year. In addition, he has recorded one second, two ties for second, two thirds and a fourth.

"I'm not winning as much as I'd like to be. I've already lost one tournament I wanted to win . . . that's the masters," said Arnold.

Palmer thrust himself into the limelight in the star - studded Houston field by mouting one of his typical birdie charges, using deft iron play for birdies on five of the last seven holes.

My irons were pretty good," said Palmer. "They're the outstanding part of my game, if there's any outstanding part.

Jack Nicklaus, who is having a bad year on the tour, suffered a frustrating two - stroke penalty along with PGA champ Al Geiberger and former U.S. open winner Cary Middlecoff for slow play.

The penalty, invoked by PGA tournament director Jack Tuthill, took the edge off a 69 Nicklaus shot to recoup from a disastrous 77 on the first day. As a result, Nicklaus' 148 barely made the 150 cut.

Geiberger had a 145, and Middlecoff a 149.

Wills Hurt In Bucs' 7-2 Win Over Giants

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maury Wills was talking about his reunion with the Los Angeles Dogers when someone asked him if he had any friends among the San Francisco Giants.

"No," replied one of the game's fiercest battlers. "Actually I don't believe I have any friends in this league. It's not any great hostility, but when I've got the uniform on it's every man for himself."

In the sixth inning of what turned out to be a 7-2 Pittsburgh victory Friday night, pitcher Ray Sadecki hit Wills on the right knee with a pitch and knocked him out of the front lines for at least several days and possibly a week.

"You can tell when a guy's trying to hit a man, and he was trying to hit Wills on the first pitch," Pirate Manager Harry Walker said after the game. "Wills has been hot. They know he's been hot so they were throwing at him."

The Giants' clubhouse door was closed so no one was available to give the San Francisco version of the sixth-inning incident that led to a seventh-inning incident.

No matter how it came about, Wills hit the dirt on Sadecki's first pitch, then got hit on the right knee on the next pitch.

He left the game two innings later when his knee started to swell. He also displayed a bruise on the inside of the knee, the same one that gave him so much trouble last season.

The 34-year-old third baseman, whom the Pirates acquired from the Dodgers during the winter, rapped two hits in the game, raising his average to .351. He has scored 12 runs and stolen five bases.

In other National League games Cincinnati crushed Atlanta 14-7, Chicago stopped St. Louis 5-3, Philadelphia downed Los Angeles 3-1 and New York nipped Houston 3-2.

In the American League, Detroit blanked Baltimore 4-0, Chicago edged Cleveland 3-2, Minnesota defeated Boston 5-2 and Washington knocked off California 4-1. Rain washed out New York at Kansas City.

In the inning after Wills was hit, the Pirates' Tommie Sisk, who pitched a four-hitter, fired a pitch that sailed over Hal Lanier's head. Lanier took a few steps toward the mound, and players from both teams rushed onto the field, but there was no contact.

George Spriggs and Donn Clendenon each drove in two Pirate runs while Matty Alou contributed three hits to a 14-hit offensive.

Both Cincinnati and Atlanta erupted in a rash of hits, but the Reds — who had been shut out in their previous two games — won by including three homers and four doubles in their 18 hits. Atlanta had 17 hits.

John Edwards clouted a three-run homer for Cincinnati while Tommy Harper and Deron Johnson also connected.

A tie-breaking single by Ernie Banks capped a three-run rally in the seventh inning that propelled Chicago past St. Louis. Banks also singled home a run in the sixth, the first run off Cardinal pitching in 25 innings. Orlando Cepeda homered for St. Louis in the fourth.

Gary Sutherland scored two runs and John Callison drove in two for Philadelphia. Sutherland scored after leading off the fourth with a single and the sixth with a double. Callison singled home Sutherland in the fourth.

Jerry Buchek's leadoff homer in the ninth inning gave New York its victory over Houston. Rusty Staub hit a two-run homer for the Astros in the fourth.

Tiger Hurler Allows 4 Hits

Lolich Blanks Baltimore; Tribe Bows To White Sox

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"He's an interesting fellow," Sain said. "He has an active mind.

"He reminds me a lot of Whitey Ford."

Which, of course, is nothing but bad news for the American League. Ford, still active, once was the scourge of the league's batters and the pitching key to the Yankee dynasty.

Lolich, inconsistent in the last two seasons, is off to his best start ever, 3-1 with three complete games, two six-hitters and a four-hitter after a 14-14 mark last season. He must be a big winner if the Tigers are to realize their pennant hopes.

He looked the part Friday night, and a lot like Ford, spinning a masterful, four-hit, eight-strikeout, 4-0 shutout of Baltimore. The victory kept the Tigers in a share of first place.

Chicago also clung to a share of the lead, beating Cleveland 3-2 behind Tommy John's four-hit pitching. Minnesota defeated Boston 5-2 and Washington stopped California 4-1, all in night games. New York at Kansas City was postponed because of rain.

In the National League, Cincinnati punished Atlanta 14-7, Pittsburgh took San Francisco 7-2, Philadelphia edged Los Angeles 3-1, the Chicago Cubs beat St. Louis 5-3 and the New York Mets got by Houston 3-2, all at night.

Lolich, 26, a sports car and ham radio buff, has a career high of 18 victories. His 14 last season was his worst for a full season. "He has a better than 14-14 arm," manager Mayo Smith has remarked.

Catcher Bill Freehan agreed. "He really had the stuff," Freehan said after Mickey's shutout. "He was throwing absolutely excellently."

"My best pitch," said Lolich, "was a flat curve — generally known as a slider. Except I didn't throw it like a slider. My control was good."

Lolich had some mild trouble in the first inning, then breezed in. He helped his own cause with a run-scoring single in the second and walked and scored in a two-run fifth. Dick McAuliffe had a solo homer in the third.

Tommie Agee offered the key offsensive support for John's four-hitter. John, a White Sox lefty, was in a 2-2 duel with the Agee started the winning rally with a one-out single in the ninth. He stole second and scored on Pete Ward's single. Agee also singled and scored the tying run in the fourth.

Zoilo Versalles had four hits and drove in two runs and Ron Clark hit his first major league homer, a two-run shot, in Minnesota's decision over Boston.

Camilo Pascual hurled a four-hitter and got home run support by Paul Casanova and Ken Harrelson in Washington's triumph over California.

Wills Hurt In Bucs' 7-2 Win Over Giants

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maury Wills was talking about his reunion with the Los Angeles Dogers when someone asked him if he had any friends among the San Francisco Giants.

"No," replied one of the game's fiercest battlers. "Actually I don't believe I have any friends in this league. It's not any great hostility, but when I've got the uniform on it's every man for himself."

Less than 24 hours later, the Giants showed that Wills — in uniform at least — is no friend of theirs.

In the sixth inning of what turned out to be a 7-2 Pittsburgh victory Friday night, pitcher Ray Sadecki hit Wills on the right knee with a pitch and knocked him out of the front lines for at least several days and possibly a week.

"You can tell when a guy's trying to hit a man, and he was trying to hit Wills on the first pitch," Pirate Manager Harry Walker said after the game. "Wills has been hot. They know he's been hot so they were throwing at him."

The Giants' clubhouse door was closed so no one was available to give the San Francisco version of the sixth-inning incident that led to a seventh-inning incident.

No matter how it came about, Wills hit the dirt on Sadecki's first pitch, then got hit on the right knee on the next pitch.

He left the game two innings later when his knee started to swell. He also displayed a bruise on the inside of the knee, the same one that gave him so much trouble last season.

The 34-year-old third baseman, whom the Pirates acquired from the Dodgers during the winter, rapped two hits in the game, raising his average to .351. He has scored 12 runs and stolen five bases.

In other National League games Cincinnati crushed Atlanta 14-7, Chicago stopped St. Louis 5-3, Philadelphia downed Los Angeles 3-1 and New York nipped Houston 3-2.

In the American League, Detroit blanked Baltimore 4-0, Chicago edged Cleveland 3-2, Minnesota defeated Boston 5-2 and Washington knocked off California 4-1. Rain washed out New York at Kansas City.

In the inning after Wills was hit, the Pirates' Tommie Sisk, who pitched a four-hitter, fired a pitch that sailed over Hal Lanier's head. Lanier took a few steps toward the mound, and players from both teams rushed onto the field, but there was no contact.

George Spriggs and Donn Clendenon each drove in two Pirate runs while Matty Alou contributed three hits to a 14-hit offensive.

Both Cincinnati and Atlanta erupted in a rash of hits, but the Reds — who had been shut out in their previous two games — won by including three homers and four doubles in their 18 hits. Atlanta had 17 hits.

John Edwards clouted a three-run homer for Cincinnati while Tommy Harper and Deron Johnson also connected.

A tie-breaking single by Ernie Banks capped a three-run rally in the seventh inning that propelled Chicago past St. Louis. Banks also singled home a run in the sixth, the first run off Cardinal pitching in 25 innings. Orlando Cepeda homered for St. Louis in the fourth.

Gary Sutherland scored two runs and John Callison drove in two for Philadelphia. Sutherland scored after leading off the fourth with a single and the sixth with a double. Callison singled home Sutherland in the fourth.

Jerry Buchek's leadoff homer in the ninth inning gave New York its victory over Houston. Rusty Staub hit a two-run homer for the Astros in the fourth.

Tiger Hurler Allows 4 Hits

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"He's an interesting fellow," Sain said. "He has an active mind.

"He reminds me a lot of Whitey Ford."

Which, of course, is nothing but bad news for the American League. Ford, still active, once was the scourge of the league's batters and the pitching key to the Yankee dynasty.

Lolich, inconsistent in the last two seasons, is off to his best start ever, 3-1 with three complete games, two six-hitters and a four-hitter after a 14-14 mark last season. He must be a big winner if the Tigers are to realize their pennant hopes.

He looked the part Friday night, and a lot like Ford, spinning a masterful, four-hit, eight-strikeout, 4-0 shutout of Baltimore. The victory kept the Tigers in a share of first place.

Chicago also clung to a share of the lead, beating Cleveland 3-2 behind Tommy John's four-hit pitching. Minnesota defeated Boston 5-2 and Washington stopped California 4-1, all in night games. New York at Kansas City was postponed because of rain.

In the National League, Cincinnati punished Atlanta 14-7, Pittsburgh took San Francisco 7-2, Philadelphia edged Los Angeles 3-1, the Chicago Cubs beat St. Louis 5-3 and the New York Mets got by Houston 3-2, all at night.

Lolich, 26, a sports car and ham radio buff, has a career high of 18 victories. His 14 last season was his worst for a full season. "He has a better than 14-14 arm," manager Mayo Smith has remarked.

Catcher Bill Freehan agreed. "He really had the stuff," Freehan said after Mickey's shutout. "He was throwing absolutely excellently."

"My best pitch," said Lolich," was a flat curve — generally known as a slider. Except I didn't throw it like a slider. My control was good."

Lolich had some mild trouble in the first inning, then breezed in. He helped his own cause with a run-scoring single in the second and walked and scored in a two-run fifth. Dick McAuliffe had a solo homer in the third.

Steve Barber, making his first start since he and Stu Miller combined for a losing no-hitter last Sunday, took the loss for Baltimore.

Tommie Agee offered the key offsensive support for John's four-hitter. John, a White Sox lefty, was in a 2-2 duel with the Agee started the winning rally with a one-out single in the ninth. He stole second and scored on Pete Ward's single. Agee also singled and scored the tying run in the fourth.

Zoilo Versalles had four hits and drove in two runs and Ron Clark hit his first major league homer, a two-run shot, in Minnesota's decision over Boston.

Junior Editors Quiz on BEAVERS

QUESTION: Why is the beaver's tail flat?

ANSWER: To answer this question, we must show you something of the beaver's hard working but cozy life (see picture). Gnawing down trees, beavers cut them in pieces and dam small streams, building ponds. Then they build a conical house by the edge of the pond. There is a dry room inside where the beavers live, with an opening which goes under the water to a storeroom where they keep young tree trunks for their winter food. When danger threatens, the beavers swim under water and come up inside their house where they are safe from their enemies. A beaver thus must be an expert swimmer. He has webs on his hind feet and uses these to propel himself with. The flat tail serves as the beaver's rudder. At upper left, one is diving down. He is holding his tail downward so the water pushing against it will turn him down. The other beaver, coming to the surface, holds his tail in a position which directs him upward. Beavers slap with their tails on the water to warn other beavers of danger. The flat tail also acts as a brace when the beaver is cutting tree trunks.

When danger threatens, the beavers swim under water and come up inside their house where they are safe from their enemies. A beaver thus must be an expert swimmer. He has webs on his hind feet and uses these to propel himself with. The flat tail serves as the beaver's rudder. At upper left, one is diving down. He is holding his tail downward so the water pushing against it will turn him down. The other beaver, coming to the surface, holds his tail in a position which directs him upward. Beavers slap with their tails on the water to warn other beavers of danger. The flat tail also acts as a brace when the beaver is cutting tree trunks.

Judge Denies Appeal By Ice

Chester Ice Jr., 29, former East Liverpool resident convicted of first - degree manslaughter March 17, 1966, had a fair trial, Judge Raymond S. Buzzard of Common Pleas Court ruled Friday in denying his post-conviction appeal.

Ice is in Ohio State Penitentiary serving a 1-to-20-year sentence. A jury convicted him of killing Charles Adams, 29, of East Liverpool, in a fistfight at Rock Camp.

In an appeal filed 10 days ago in Common Pleas Court, Ice claimed his constitutional rights were violated.

Judge Buzzard said he reviewed the files and records and is satisfied the defendant's constitutional rights were not denied or infringed and that he is entitled to no relief on the petition.

Earlier this year, Ice filed a mandamus action with the Seventh District Court of Appeals asking it to order Common Pleas Court to furnish him all the records in the case. The Appellate Court denied the request.

Hancock Sheriff Submits Report

Forty-two were arrested by Hancock County sheriff's deputies during April, including 18 on traffic charges, according to the monthly report of Sheriff Joe Rodak.

There were 33 vehicles involved in accidents and 26 persons were injured. Damage totaled $19,550 to the autos and trucks, while damage to other property amounted to $1,025.

Twenty-six were lodged in the county jail by the deputies. Seven were taken there by Weirton police, one by New Cumberland police, one by Chester authorities, two by local constables and two by West Virginia state police. Also housed were five juveniles.

There were 180 papers served and mileage on the county cruisers amounted to 12,605.

Personnel made two trips to the state hospital at Weston, to the Industrial Boys Home at Prunytown and to Blackwater Falls.

Bar Employe Convicted On State Charge

An employe of a downtown tavern was convicted on one charge filed by agents of the State Liquor Control Department and absolved of another after a lengthy hearing Friday before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Norman Anthony of E. 5th St., a bartender at the Village Green at 529 Market St., was fined $25 and costs on a charge of selling intoxicating beverages to an intoxicated person. But the court found Anthony not guilty of the second charge, alleging he sold intoxicating liquor to a person under 21.

Anthony pleaded not guilty to both charges at arraignment April 24. He was represented by Lawrence W. Smith. Anthony was cited April 22 by two state liquor agents. They alleged that he sold intoxicants to a youth, 20, who was intoxicated.

Testimony showed that Ryan was carrying an Army "I.D." card which gave his age as 21. It also showed that Health Department birth records disclosed his true age is 20.

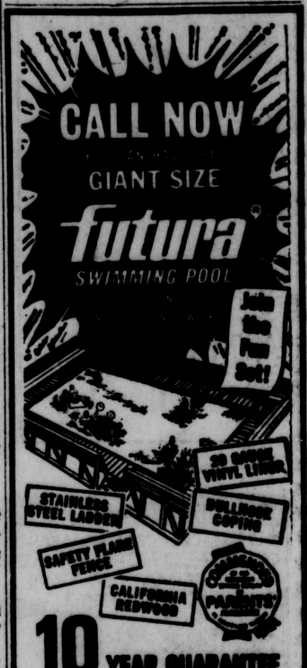

Ryan is charged in an affidavit signed by the state agents alleging that he as a minor "did pay for, purchase and consume intoxicating liquor."

His trial also was set yesterday, but he was granted a continuance on his request for an opportunity to obtain counsel.
